NO Better PLACE TO BE!

There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park. With its top-ranked academic programs, nationally recognized faculty, diverse population, and lush 1,580-acre campus located between Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, Md., it's no wonder the University of Maryland is a sought-after destination for some of the state's – and the country's – best and brightest students.

Attracting them are more than 100 majors and some of the highest ranked programs in the country. For instance, in the latest U.S. News & World Report undergraduate rankings, University of Maryland's business school was rated 16th nationally while the engineering school was ranked 26th. In graduate school rankings, the A. James Clark School of Engineering, the School of Public Affairs, the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences, the College of Computer, Mathematical and Physical Sciences, and the College of Education all ranked in the top 25, according to U.S. News & World Report.

High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in close proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of internships, work-study opportunities and career choices for students. And, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide.

Whether your focus is the sciences or the humanities, a small town atmosphere or a metropolitan feel, the University of Maryland offers a wide range of educational and cultural opportunities.

There truly is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park.

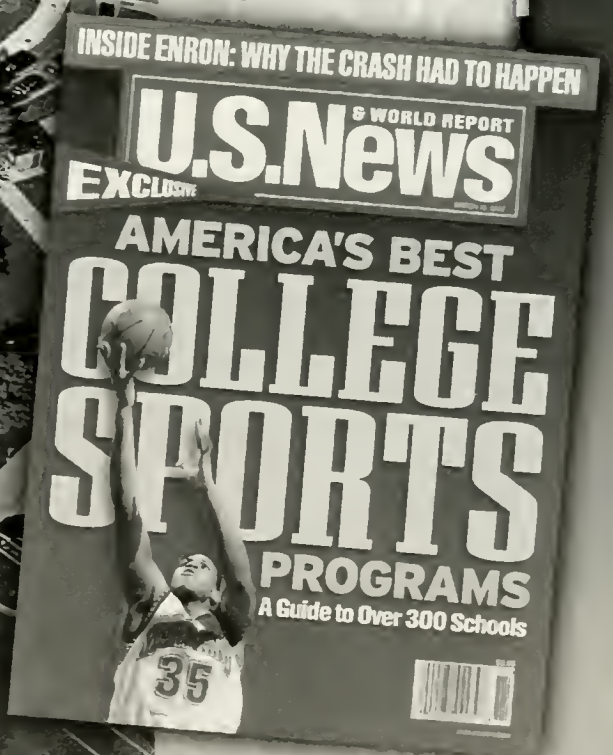
U.S. News & World Report Gives Terp Athletics High Marks

In its first-ever ranking of intercollegiate athletic programs, U.S. News & World Report named the University of Maryland's athletic program to its Top 20 Honor Roll last March. The Honor Roll was compiled based on an evaluation of data from all 321 NCAA Division I institutions for the 2000-2001 academic year.

The Honor Roll recognizes institutions that did well across several categories, including NCAA compliance, commitment to gender equity, overall win/loss records, total number of sports offered, and graduation rates.



ORANGE BOWL 2002

University of Maryland returned to the bowl scene last year, winning the ACC's automatic bid into the Bowl Championship Series after capturing the league title with a 7-1 mark. The Terps, who were ranked as high as sixth in the nation, met fifth-ranked Florida in the FedEx Orange Bowl on Jan. 2, 2002.

More than 22,000 Maryland fans were part of the sellout crowd at Pro Player Stadium for the Terps' 18th bowl appearance in school history.

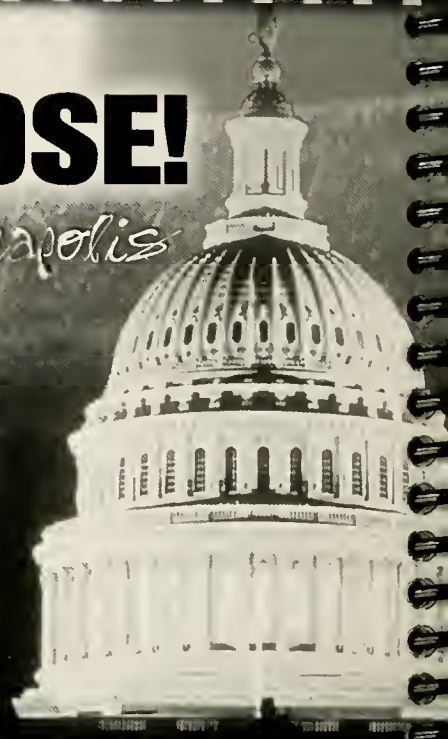
Baltimore • Washington, D.C. • Annapolis

City lights, history, sparkling waterfronts, monumental landscapes. Jazz, film festivals, marches and demonstrations. Shopping, professional sports, regattas on the Chesapeake Bay. Not just one city, but three. Not just any city, but the nation's capital, a major port city, and the state capital of Maryland.



It's All Here Beyond the University of Maryland Campus

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The nation's capital and its major attractions are within 10 miles of Byrd Stadium. And the highly efficient Metro rail system, with a station at the campus doorstep, makes navigating the greater Washington, D.C., area easy. Campus shuttle buses serve the College Park Metro station, allowing easy access to one of the country's model transportation systems.

BALTIMORE

The 12th largest city in the United States is often referred to as the "Charm City." Located just 35 miles north of the University of Maryland, its rejuvenation as an urban center is unprecedented. The Inner Harbor, its National Aquarium and tall ships, and the nearby Oriole Park at Camden Yards create an exciting, vibrant holiday atmosphere in a city that boasts one of the world's great sea ports.

ANNAPOLIS

The state capital of Maryland lies just 30 miles east of the University of Maryland. Long called the "sailing capital of the United States," Annapolis is located at the mouth of the Severn River on the Chesapeake Bay. The historic downtown area is known for its wonderful eating and shopping opportunities. There are few places in the world that rival the Chesapeake Bay area for its appealing qualities.

THE TERPS HAVE Fridge Fever!

"Fridge Fever" took over the University of Maryland football program in a big way in 2001.

Under the guidance of the eventual consensus national coach of the year, the Terps bolted to a 7-0 start on their way to a 10-2 finish, made a dramatic climb into the top 10 of the national rankings, and sparked the second-largest home attendance increase in the NCAA ranks a year ago.

It was a storybook season, indeed, for the Terps and their loyal followers. More than 52,000 fans – the fourth-largest in stadium history – shoehorned into Byrd for an ACC title-clinching win over Clemson. Six weeks later, more than 22,000 fans made their way to Miami to cheer on the Terps in the FedEx Orange Bowl.

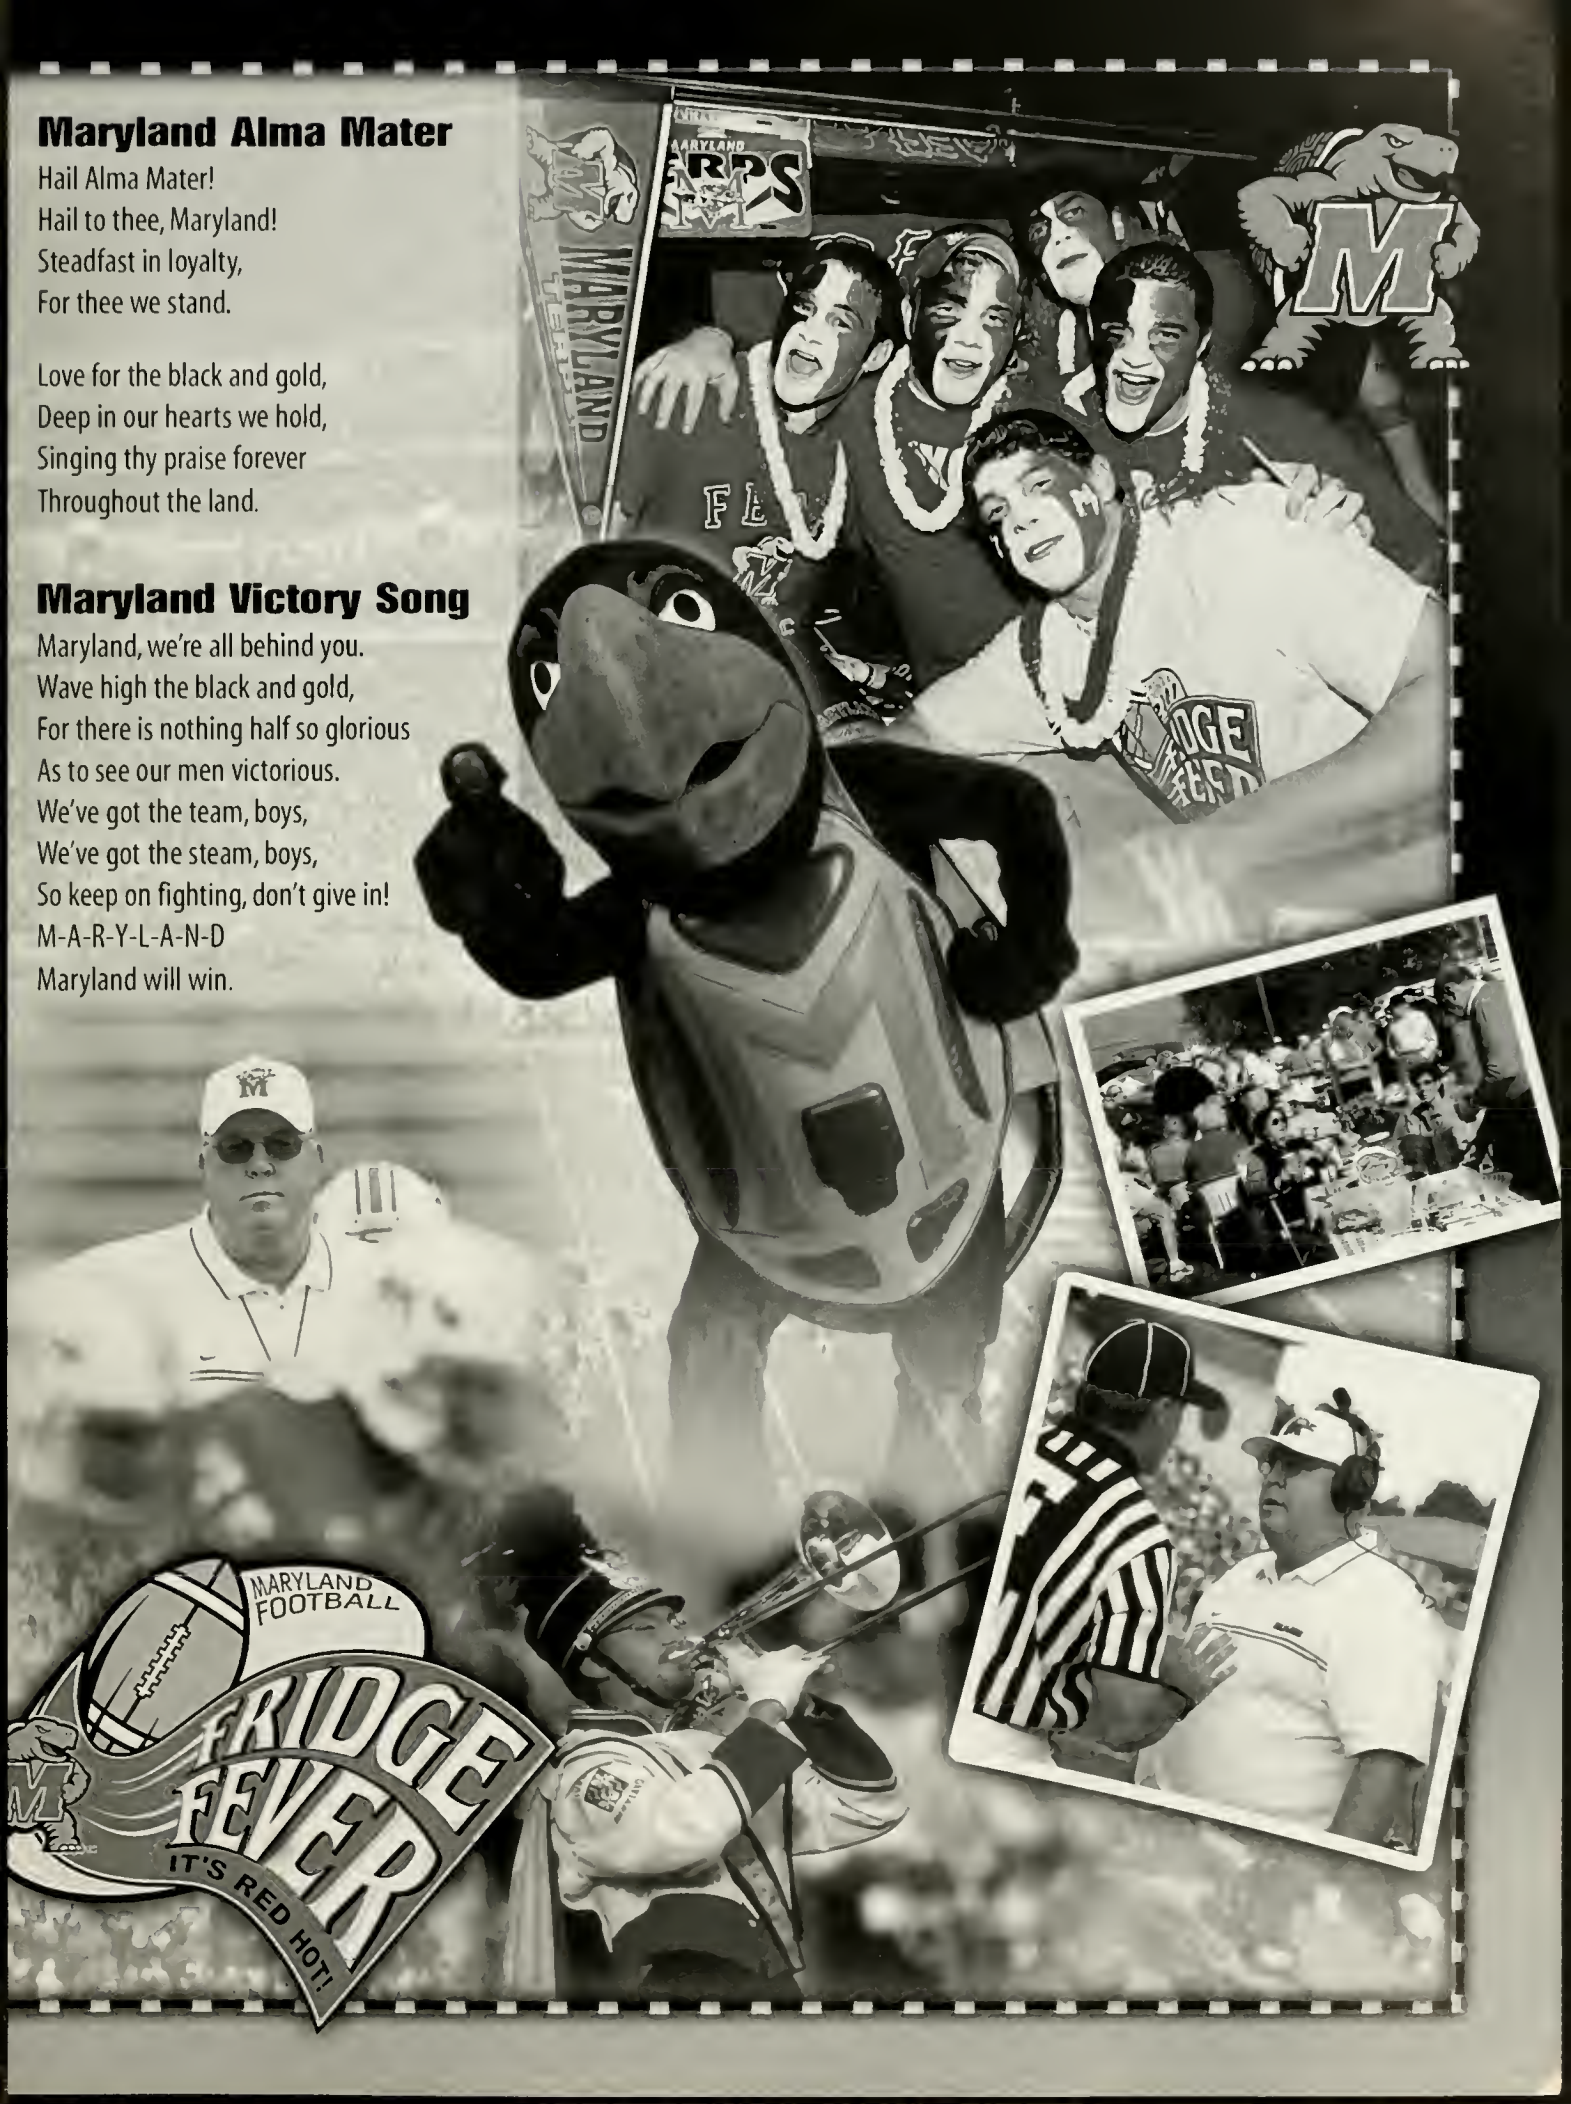
Maryland Alma Mater

Hail Alma Mater!
Hail to thee, Maryland!
Steadfast in loyalty,
For thee we stand.

Love for the black and gold,
Deep in our hearts we hold,
Singing thy praise forever
Throughout the land.

Maryland Victory Song

Maryland, we're all behind you.
Wave high the black and gold,
For there is nothing half so glorious
As to see our men victorious.
We've got the team, boys,
We've got the steam, boys,
So keep on fighting, don't give in!
M-A-R-Y-L-A-N-D
Maryland will win.



GOSSETT TEAM HOUSE

Expansion UNDERWAY

The Gossett Football Team House expansion project, which began with the first phase this past spring, will improve the University of Maryland's football facility to better meet the needs of Terp student-athletes and recruits through the expansion of four components:

- Expanded academic support and career development unit
- New recruit meeting room/dining facility with kitchen
- New team meeting auditorium
- Expanded entrance and lobby

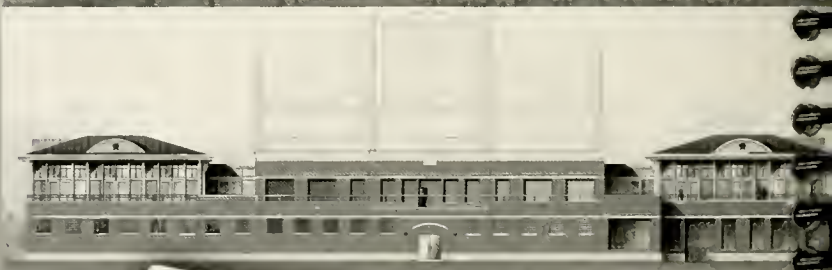
The expansion and new construction will create 15,500 additional square feet. The expanded academic support lab — the most urgent phase of the project — will increase the existing space dedicated to support and strengthen the academic and career achievement initiatives of football student-athletes by more than 4,000 square feet.

The 3,500 square foot recruit meeting room/dining facility will provide a much-needed multi-purpose facility for hosting recruits and their families.

A new team meeting auditorium will give the entire football team the opportunity to meet together in one room, allowing the coaching staff to teach using up-to-date technology in an environment that has sufficient seating space for football players.

This addition will help transform the staff's ability to effectively present offensive and ve game plans.

ppropriate entrance and lobby for the House will help to create feelings of ance and success. It will be an to recruits and other visitors. d lobby will highlight the rich otball and will showcase the Terps program of national distinction.



New Video Board Unveiled in 2002

New to Byrd Stadium in 2002 will be the addition of a state-of-the-art video board capable of showing game action and replays. The new board will be situated at the east end of Byrd Stadium, atop the Gossett Football Team House. The high resolution board will measure 21 feet tall by 28 feet wide.

TERPS' QB Legacy

Over the years Maryland has carved a well-earned reputation as Quarterback U, producing 13 players who have gone on to play the position in the National Football League. Here's a brief look at some of the Terps' most celebrated signal-callers:

Jack Scarbath (1950-52) — Maryland's split T quarterback was runner-up to Billy Vessels for the Heisman Trophy and was a unanimous All-America selection in 1952. Named Sport magazine's "Sportsman of the Year," Scarbath was a unanimous All-South selection and the Southern Conference Player of the Year. In three seasons, the Terps were 24-4-1 with Scarbath as QB, including 10-0 in 1951. He went on to become Maryland's second first-round draft pick, going to Washington in 1953.

Dick Shiner (1961-63) - An honorable mention All-America selection in 1962, Shiner was a three-year starter for the Terps. He was a two-time first team All-ACC choice who helped lead the Terps to a 21-17 win over Penn State in just his seventh game as the signal-caller. He was later drafted by the Washington Redskins and went on to play 11 years in the NFL.

Bob Avellini (1972-74) — In his first start as a sophomore, he showed a glimpse of things to come, setting school marks for total offense (312 yards) and passing yards (314) while completing 21 of 31 passes in a game vs. Duke. He still ranks among the most accurate passers in school history, completing 58.6 percent of his passes for 3,222 yards. A sixth-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears in 1975, he went on to have a 10-year NFL career.

Boomer Esiason (1981-83) — He was a two-time All-American who set 17 school records and led the Terps to the ACC championship in 1983 and a berth in the Tangerine Bowl. Arguably the most prolific left-handed quarterback in NFL history, Esiason was a four-time Pro Bowl selection and spent 14 seasons in pro football. In 1988, he was named the league's MVP and led his Cincinnati Bengals to Super Bowl XXIII against the San Francisco 49ers.

Frank Reich (1983-84) — Best known for leading the Buffalo Bills back from a 32-point deficit in the 1992 NFL playoffs against Houston, he also commanded the greatest comeback in the college game as well. On Nov. 10, 1984, Reich replaced Stan Gelbaugh at halftime against No. 6 Miami (Fla.) down 31-0. Thirty minutes later, Maryland pulled off the miracle upset, 42-40, preserving its second consec- He finished of the the 198 ar Super Bowl (1984-85) played behind Boomer Esiason and Frank Reich before moving into the Terps' starting lineup in 1984 when Reich went down with a shoulder injury. Gelbaugh stepped in to lead Maryland to four wins and a narrow one-point loss on the road to Penn State. The following season, the anticipation of Gelbaugh's return brought the Terps a preseason No. 1 ranking by Sport magazine. The Terps went on to win the ACC title and a Cherry Bowl championship in '85. He served a pair of NFL clubs, the Buffalo Bills and Seattle Seahawks.

Neil O'Donnell (1987-89) — A two-year starter for the Terps, he ended his career in the No. 2 spot on most major Maryland passing charts. Drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1990, he became the team's franchise player during his six seasons on the team, making a Pro Bowl appearance in only his second year and leading the Steelers to an appearance in Super Bowl XXX. O'Donnell continued his career with the New York Jets, Cincinnati Bengals and Tennessee Titans.

Scott Zolak (1989-90) — Despite starting just one season for the Terps, he finished his collegiate career among Terp leaders in passing yards (3,124) and completions (270). His 2,589 passing yards in 1990 ranked as the second-highest single-season total in school history and helped earn him honorable mention All-America recognition from Football News. He was taken in the fourth round of the 1991 NFL draft by the New England Patriots.

Scott Milanovich (1993-95) — He left campus as one of the most decorated Terrapin QBs ever. In fact, Milanovich still owns or shares 31 Maryland passing records, including career standards for passing yards (7,301), touchdowns (49) and completions (650). He was drafted in 1996 by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

TERPS' NFL CONNECTION

Beginning with Maryland's first-ever NFL draft pick in 1937 and continuing in 2000 with Frank Wycheck's lateral in the "Music City Miracle," the Terrapins have fashioned an impressive tradition in the National Football League. Names like Scarbath, Jones, Nolan, White, Avellini, Esiason, Shiner, O'Donnell, Collins, Nehemiah, Lewis, Glover, Atkinson and Mike-Mayer have dotted NFL rosters over the years. In all, more than 140 Terrapins have gone on to play professionally following their Maryland careers.

OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE A Difference

Important to any college program are walk-on players, who not only make a difference in aiding a team's depth and continuity, but can also earn their own scholarship and bid for significant playing time.

Take the case of Chad Scott, for instance. After playing two seasons at Towson in 1993 and 1994, Scott chose to walk on at Maryland, uninvited. By the close of his first semester on campus, Scott was awarded a scholarship and he became a Terrapin co-captain for his senior year in 1996. The rest, as they say, is history. Scott was a first round pick in the 1997 NFL draft and, now, is chasing opponents and intercepting passes for the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Chad Scott exemplifies the ultimate walk-on portfolio. However, every season at the University of Maryland, there are walk-on players who find their niche and contribute greatly to the Terrapin program. With recent scholarship reductions, walk-on players have become a vital component to the rebuilding of Maryland football fortunes.

Another example is Terp receiver Jermaine Arrington who walked on and was the Terps' leading wide receiver in 1998 and went on to sign an NFL free agent contract with the San Francisco 49ers.

The latest player to go from walk-on to scholarship player is defensive back Andrew Williams, a transfer from Towson who emerged as a bona fide contributor with his stellar performance this past season.

RALPH FRIEDGEN

Head Coach (Maryland '70) Second Season

They say you can't go home again, but for the University of Maryland, no choice made more sense than to make sure that Ralph Friedgen did, indeed, return to College Park.

And what a return it has been.

Last year, in his first season as a head coach, all Friedgen did was lead his alma mater to an outright ACC championship, a top 10 national ranking, and a berth in the Bowl Championship Series.

In short, "the Fridge" awakened a sleeping giant.

Oh yes, and after 32 seasons as a highly successful assistant, he also was college football's national Coach of the Year.

In what truly was a whirlwind year for Friedgen, who took over as the Terrapins' 33rd field general in late November 2000, the Terps were the story of the season in college football in 2001.

Undeterred by a preseason media poll which tabbed the Terps to finish no higher than seventh in the nine-team ACC, Friedgen and his troops stampeded their way to the national stage with seven consecutive wins to open the season, including a never-say-die comeback victory over 15th-ranked Georgia Tech on national television which stood as the Terps' signature win of the 2001 campaign. The Terps wrapped up their first ACC title since 1985 with late-season victories over Clemson and NC State, and were selected to play in the FedEx Orange Bowl.

It was truly a landmark season for the Terps, who became the first ACC team other than Florida State to win an outright league title since the Seminoles joined the league in 1992. Friedgen was named the Terps' 33rd head coach on Nov. 29, 2000 after a highly successful 32-year stint as an assistant coach, including the previous five at Georgia Tech, where he orchestrated one of the most potent offensive units in the land. From 1998-2000, the Yellow Jackets averaged nearly 37 points and more than 444 yards of total offense per game while posting a cumulative record of 27-8-1 (.771). The '99 Yellow Jackets, let by Heisman runner-up Joe Hamilton, finished No. 1 nationally in total offense (a school-record 509 yards per game) and ranked second nationally in scoring (40.7 points per game).

The 55-year-old Friedgen (pronounced FREE-jun) owns the rare distinction of coordinating the offense for both a collegiate national champion and a Super Bowl team. A 1970 graduate of the University of Maryland where he earned a degree in physical education, Friedgen launched his coaching career as a graduate assistant before heading off to a number of college coaching jobs including stints at The Citadel (1973-79), William & Mary (1980) and Murray State (1981). In '82, he returned to Maryland as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach under Bobby Ross, with Friedgen's tenure lasting until 1986. During that stretch, the Terps captured three consecutive ACC championships (1983-85) and played in four bowl games. All told, the Terrapins were 39-15-1 from 1982-86 and won two bowl games (the Sun Bowl in 1984 and the Cherry Bowl in 1985). It is the type of success Friedgen intended to re-instill in the current group of Terrapins.

"I think the football experience should be fun and what is fun to me is winning," said Friedgen. "Our goals will be to be a Top 20 team, year in and year out. I am looking forward to a lot of success here at Maryland."

During his five-year stay at Maryland under Ross, Friedgen was, along with quarterbacks coach Joe Krivak, instrumental in the development of future pro quarterbacks Boomer Esiason, Frank Reich and Stan Gelbaugh, all of whom spent at least 10 seasons in the National Football League. Esiason played professionally from 1984-97, Reich from 1985-98 and Gelbaugh from 1986-95. These players flourished under Friedgen largely because they strode to meet his expectations, the same as those he works to instill today.

"I can show the players how to win and how to win is knowing how not to lose," said Friedgen. "If they put forth the effort and will work, they will win. There is a very fine line between winning and losing; it is a perception. If you look at the places where I have been — whether it is at Georgia Tech the first time when we were 2-9 and 3-8 and then end up winning the national championship, or the San Diego Chargers when we went 2-14 and then end going 11-5 and making the playoffs and going to the Super Bowl — you have to learn how to win and I think I know how to do that. It is going to be hard work, though. [Student-athletes] have to work hard, practice hard, and be disciplined. They are going to have to do things that are right, not only on the field but off the field as well."

The Ross-Friedgen connection began in 1973, when Ross hired the former Maryland offensive lineman as defensive line coach at The Citadel. Friedgen spent seven seasons at The Citadel, the last three as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. Friedgen then worked one season (1980) as offensive coordinator at William & Mary and one season (1981) as assistant head coach at Murray State before Ross tapped him to be his offensive coordinator at Maryland in 1982.

Friedgen followed Ross to Georgia Tech in 1987, becoming the Yellow Jackets' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for the next five seasons, including the 1990 campaign when Tech, unranked in the preseason, captured the national championship with an 11-0-1 record. The national title came just two years after the Jackets had posted back-to-back seasons of three wins or less. When Ross was named head coach of the San Diego Chargers in 1992, he tapped Friedgen to serve as running game coordinator for two seasons (1992-93) before elevating him to offensive coordinator in 1994, when the Chargers advanced to Super Bowl XXIX for the first time in franchise history. During his time with the Chargers, Friedgen helped a club that had not made the playoffs in a decade reach postseason play three times in five seasons.

Friedgen spent 20 seasons with Ross in coaching stops at The Citadel, Maryland, Georgia Tech and the San Diego Chargers. Friedgen returned to Tech in 1997, where he served another successful stint as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach, this time under then-head coach George O'Leary.

Known for developing balanced offensive attacks with multiple looks, Tech was one of only two teams in the country in 1999 to average at least 200 yards rushing and 200 yards passing. Tech also accomplished the feat under Friedgen's guidance in 1990, '91 and '98. The 1999 team, with the diminutive Hamilton calling the signals at quarterback, set 59 school records, rewriting many marks established by the 1990 national championship team, which was led by another Friedgen pupil, signal-caller Shawn Jones (1989-92). Friedgen was a finalist for the Broyles Award as the nation's top assistant coach in 1998 when the Rambling Wreck set a then-school record with 50 touchdowns.

Friedgen, who also earned his master's degree from the University of Maryland, is the first Maryland alum since Bob Ward (1967-68) to serve as the Terps' head football coach. Friedgen originally came to Maryland as a quarterback in the mid-'60s and spent most of his career as an offensive lineman, lettering in 1966 and 1968 and capturing Academic All-ACC honors in '68. He was a two-time winner of the George C. Cook Memorial Award (1968-69) for having the highest academic average on the football team.

"Coach Friedgen is an experienced and consistently successful football coach who also has a passion for Maryland," said Maryland athletics director Deborah A. Yow. "He understands the ACC, embraces Maryland's philosophy of the student-athlete and has a clear and compelling vision for returning Maryland to national prominence."

Because of his obvious ties to Maryland as a university and a state, Friedgen has stated implicitly that he wants to keep the area's best players at home.

"I think that has to be the main focus of our recruiting," said Friedgen. "We have to get the better players from the state. Not every player is meant to come to the University of Maryland, but a large portion of them should. I know a lot of coaches in this area and they know me from the last time I was here, a lot of the coaches are former Maryland players and I think it is time the Maryland community unites. We have a Terrapin now as the head coach. The alumni, the fans, the former players; we all have to become a strong force. Part of that is going to be recruiting in the state and I am going to rely on those former players to get the better prep players to stay in state."

Friedgen's coaching roots run deep. His father, Ralph Sr., was a high school coach for more than 30 years and masterminded, among other teams, the 1964 Westchester County (N.Y.) High School team that went undefeated and averaged 44 points per game running what was then an unusual multiple offense. It was an offense run by a 190-pound quarterback later recruited by Maryland named Ralph Friedgen Jr.

Friedgen and his wife, the former Gloria Spina, have three daughters: Kelley, 24; Kristina, 15, and Katharine, 13. Gloria is currently serving as an adjunct professor at the University of Maryland.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

"I've been in obscurity for 32 years. Now, no matter where I go, I'm recognized. People want autographs, people want pictures."

– Ralph Friedgen, December 2001

"Maryland coach Ralph Friedgen may be an offensive whiz, a meticulous organizer and a tireless workaholic. But for all those attributes, his mastery of motivation has been the most critical factor in transforming a losing team full of self-doubt into a confident ACC champion headed to the Orange Bowl."

– Washington Times, December 2001

"The main thing about Coach Friedgen is, I don't think he tries to say the right things. He just says what he feels in his heart. That's why it means so much. You can see in his face he means it. I'll play all my life for a guy like that."

– Former linebacker Aaron Thompson

"I'm a competitor and I don't like to lose. I like winning more than anything else in life."

– Friedgen, December 2001

"I was thinking to myself, '32 years and nobody knew me. Now they are stopping me at red lights.'"

– Friedgen, December 2001

"One of his best moves was hiring two former [head] coaches as his coordinators. Charlie Taaffe (The Citadel) runs the offense and Gary Blackney (Bowling Green) handles the defense. He reasoned: 'I can't wait around to be making rookie head coaching mistakes at 54.'"

– The Associated Press, December 2001

"Ralph Friedgen lifted the Maryland football program to national prominence this season. Yesterday, the first-year coach was rewarded with a new [10-year] contract that should keep him in College Park until 2012. 'I'm making the commitment,' Friedgen said. 'I said from Day One if I can get this program back to consistently being in the top 20, then I would consider my life's work done . . . I'm here, this is where I want to be.'"

– Washington Times, December 2001

"Before the year I told the kids if they took it one game at a time, we'd probably be going to a bowl and probably be complaining about what bowl we're going to. We're not complaining [now]."

– Friedgen after accepting an Orange Bowl invitation, December 2001

And I still think we're just scratching the surface here. You don't make a program in [illegible] It is going to take time . . . we need to use this as a foundation so we can get [illegible] g, long time."

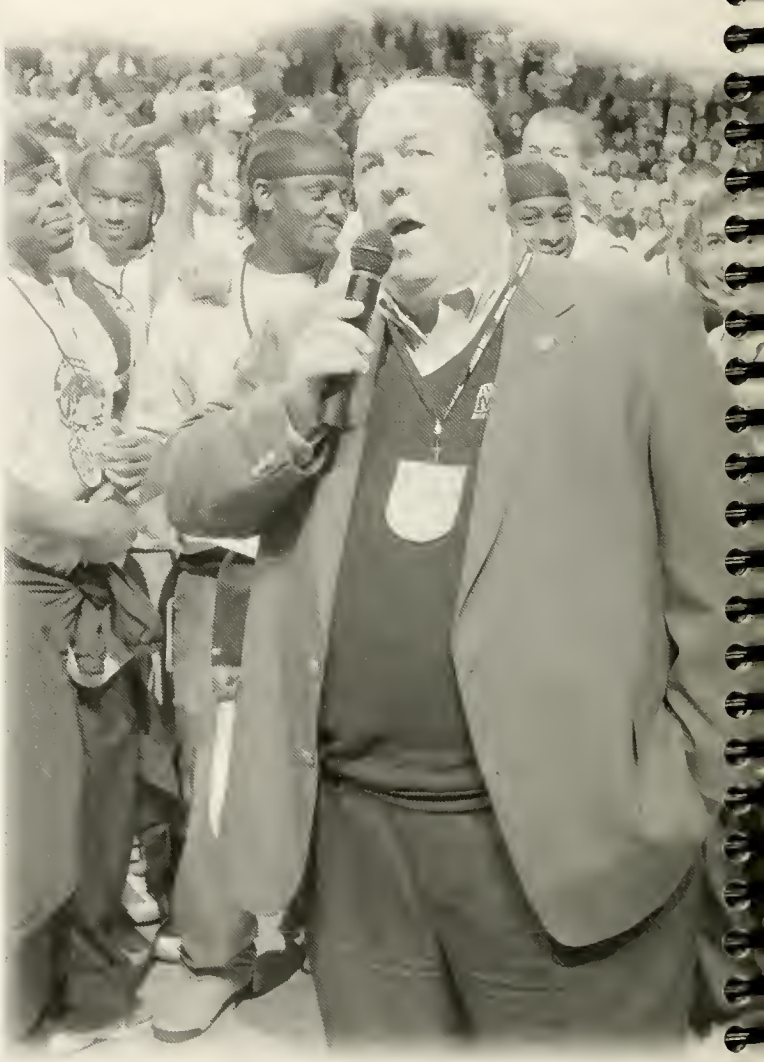
– Atlanta Journal-Constitution, November 2001

"What's most vivid about Friedgen's team is the way it has internalized the personality of its coach: passionate but poised, smart but sassy."

– Washington Post, November 2001



"One radio station interviewer asked me the other day, 'In your wildest dreams, did you ever think you could be 8-1?' And I said, 'Yes, in my wildest dreams.' I always dream wild."

– Friedgen, November 2001

"This is a special bunch, maybe one of the best teams ever at the University of Maryland. They have done so much."

– Friedgen, November 2001

"[Coach Friedgen] has extraordinary leadership skills. He's smart, he has technical knowledge of the game, he has the ability to communicate with players. He is an effective recruiter, and he leads well. He stays calm in the midst of the swirl."

– Debbie Yow, November 2001

"I spent four years studying Coach Friedgen. I watched his games on satellite TV whenever I could, I read everything about him on the Internet . . . When I met him for the first time, he had a whole outline of what he was going to say, how he was going to build the program. Halfway through it I said to him, 'You're the guy I want.'"

CHARLIE TAAFFE

Offensive Coodinator/ Quarterbacks (Siena College '73) Second Season

Charlie Taaffe is in his second season as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for the Maryland Terrapins.

In his first year at College Park, the Terrapins saw unprecedented offensive success under his guidance. Running Ralph Friedgen's offense, Taaffe was able to steer Maryland to a school-record 390 points (35.5 per outing). The Terps' 439.7 yards of total offense per game was tops in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Taaffe's expertise in the option helped the team to an average of 220.7 yards per game on the ground, second-best in the league. From an individual standpoint, Shaun Hill flourished at quarterback, becoming the leader of the offense en route to a second team All-ACC selection.

Before making his way to Maryland, Taaffe spent two years with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League where he served as head coach in 1999 and 2000. With Taaffe at the helm, the Alouettes had a combined 25-14 record (back-to-back 12-6 regular seasons and a 1-2 playoff record) and advanced to the 2000 Grey Cup finals. For his efforts in 1999 and 2000, Taaffe was named CFL Coach of the Year making him only the second Montreal coach to earn such distinction (Marv Levy being the first in 1974) and the first coach in league history to earn the honor in each of his first two years. He also earned the same distinction from the Canadian Football Writers Association. All together, Taaffe spent four years in Montreal as he served two years as the Alouettes' offensive coordinator before taking over as head coach.

While in Canada, Taaffe's offenses put up some lofty numbers. In 2000, the Alouettes broke the all-time league record for points in a regular season as they posted 594. Taaffe helped quarterback Anthony Calvillo to a 112.9 pass efficiency rating in 2000 after a 108.9 rating led the league. Former Boston College back Mike Pringle also excelled in Taaffe's system as he ran for a league-best 1,656 yards in 1999.

Prior to his stint north of the border, Taaffe was the head coach at The Citadel from 1987-96. Taaffe took the Bulldogs to new heights in his 10 years with the Division I-AA school as he won more games than any coach in the history of the Military College. Prior to his tenure, The Citadel had not won a league game or road game in more than two seasons. Under Taaffe, the Bulldogs won a Southern Conference championship, finished a regular season (1992) ranked No. 1 in the country and advanced to the Division I-AA playoffs three times. He was the 1992 recipient of the Eddie Robinson Award (which recognizes the top coach in Division I-AA), the Southern Conference Coach of the Year in 1990 and '88, and the Kodak Region II Coach of the Year in those same seasons. In addition, his teams beat six different Division I-A opponents (in 12 tries), including upsets of South Carolina (1990) and Arkansas (1992), and four of his teams were ranked in the final national I-AA poll (14th in 1988; 15th in 1990; 20th in 1991; 1st in 1992).

His 1992 team was arguably the best in The Citadel's history as it finished 11-2, was the top ranked team at the end of the regular season, and ultimately fell to the eventual champ (Youngstown State) in the quarterfinals. For his efforts in '92, Taaffe was named AFCA Division I-AA National Coach of the Year. His overall record at The Citadel was 59-54-1, with six seasons of .500 or better.

Taaffe came to The Citadel after a successful stint as an offensive assistant at the U.S. Military Academy from 1981-86. In the three years Taaffe served as Army's offensive coordinator, the Cadets had a combined record of 23-13.

Taaffe's ties to the Atlantic Coast Conference are strong. Before his stint at The Citadel, Taaffe coached at three different ACC schools for a total of seven years. From 1976-80, he was an assistant at Virginia where he coached the offensive backfield, linebackers and special teams. His position with the Cavaliers came on the heels of graduate assistantships with NC State (1975, backs) and Georgia Tech (1974, receivers).

The 1973 season was Taaffe's first as a coach at the collegiate level as he was an offensive backfield coach at Albany (N.Y.) State College. The position came right after his graduation from Siena College in Siena, N.Y., where he was a quarterback for three years and earned a B.A. in education in 1973. He was inducted into Siena's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1990.

Born April 20, 1950, Taaffe is married to the former Jan Anderson, a former athletic trainer at Army. The couple has one son, Brian Patrick, who was born March 17, 1989.

GARY BLACKNEY

Defensive Coodinator/ Secondary (Connecticut '67) Second Season

Gary Blackney is in his second season as the Terrapins' defensive coordinator and secondary coach.

In his first season with the Terps, Blackney headed up a high-pressure defensive unit that helped propel Maryland to its first ACC title since 1985. Under his guidance, the Terrapin defense led the Atlantic Coast Conference in scoring defense (19.1 ppg), rushing defense (90.6 ypg) and sacks (37). In addition, the Terps were second nationally in interceptions (24) and tied for seventh in turnovers forced with 34. The 24 interceptions were the most by a Maryland team in 51 years.

Recruiting Areas

Maryland (Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties), Delaware, Eastern Ohio

Prior to coming to Maryland, Blackney most recently served as the head coach at Bowling Green State University. He resigned his post following the final game of the 2000 season after 10 successful years with the program and an overall record of 60-50-2 (47-32-2, MAC). The BGSU job was his first as a head coach and his 60 wins as a Falcon rank third on the school's all-time list.

Blackney left Bowling Green as the only coach in school history to win a bowl game as he led the Falcons to victories in the 1991 California Raisin Bowl (2B-21 over Fresno State) and the 1992 Las Vegas Bowl (35-34 over Nevada). With 11 wins in 1991 and 10 in 1992, he is the only coach in BGSU history to have back-to-back seasons of 10 wins or more. In doing so, he also became one of just three coaches ever to have been named Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year in consecutive seasons. Other honors at Bowling Green included being named a finalist for Football News' National Coach of the Year award in 1991 as well as two selections as AFCA Region 3 Coach of the Year (in '91 and '92).

The 1991 season was Blackney's first as a head coach and with 11 wins that year, he tied an NCAA record for most wins by a first-year head coach. In fact, his career at Bowling Green began with a MAC record 19 straight conference wins and a 22-game unbeaten streak in the first two years. But the accolades did not end on the playing field for Blackney. At the time, he was the only coach from the MAC to have his recruiting classes receive the American Football Coaches Association Academic Achievement Award (70 percent or better graduation rate) each year of the award's existence. His first recruiting class (1991-92) finished with one of the top marks in the nation at 93 percent.

Prior to taking over at Bowling Green, Blackney served as an assistant coach for 21 years. After serving as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Connecticut, in 196B and '69, he got his first full-time position in 1970 as a defensive backs coach at Brown. He then spent two seasons (1973-74) as offensive backs coach at Rhode Island. From there his stint serving big-time programs (and often alongside some big-time coaching names) began. From 1975-77, he was a defensive backs coach and ultimately defensive coordinator (1977) at Wisconsin. After three years with the Badgers, he moved to the West Coast and UCLA where he worked as a defensive backs coach under Terry Donahue. In 19B0, Blackney came back east to Syracuse where he held the same post from 19B0-B3 under Dick MacPherson. His final coaching spot before Bowling Green was at Ohio State where he began his tenure in 19B4 as a defensive backs coach under Earle Bruce and ended as an inside linebackers coach from 19BB-90 under John Cooper. In between (19BS-87), he was the Buckeyes' defensive coordinator.

Of all of his positions, however, none had the eventual name power that could match that of his graduate assistant job at Connecticut. In Storrs, he worked with Rick Forzano, current South Carolina coach Lou Holtz, former Cleveland Browns head coach Sam Rutigliano, as well as eventual NFL assistants Dave Adolph and Dan Sekanovich.

A 1967 graduate of UConn, Blackney is a native of Plainview, N.Y., and was born in Astoria, N.Y. He and his wife, Lauretta, have four children (Debbie, David, Kyle and Gary Jr.) and three grandchildren (Kerie, Jamie and Abby).

TOM BRATTAN

Offensive Line (Delaware '72) Second Season

Tom Brattan is in his second season as the Terps' offensive line coach. He boasts 30 years of coaching experience, including 20 at the collegiate level.

In his first year with the Terrapins, Brattan's offensive line unit enjoyed tremendous success. It was a group that helped lead the Terps to a school-record 390 points (an average of 35.5 per game), allowed just 18 sacks (third-best in the ACC) and paved the way for a Doak Walker finalist season out of tailback Bruce Perry (1,242 yards). From an individual standpoint, two of his linemen (Melvin Fowler and Todd Wike) earned first team All-ACC recognition with Fowler also being named a finalist for the Rimington Award (given to the nation's top center) and ultimately being drafted in the third round of the NFL Draft by the Cleveland Browns. Tackle C.J. Brooks also earned mention as a Freshman All-American by The Sporting News.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Brattan spent two years at Stanford University where he served as the Cardinal's offensive line coach in charge of centers and guards. Of the two years Brattan spent with the Cardinal, 1999 was the team's brightest. Stanford went 8-4 that season and had wins over Arizona, UCLA, Oregon State and Notre Dame on the way to a Rose Bowl bid. The 1999 Stanford offense scored at least 31 points in all but three games and hit the 50-point plateau three times. It averaged 37.2 points and 467.1 yards per game, and Brattan's offensive line allowed a paltry 15 sacks despite 385 passing attempts (an average of one sack for every 27 attempts).

In 1983, Brattan took his first job at the collegiate level at William & Mary as an offensive backfield coach. After just one season, he was promoted to offensive coordinator and served the remainder of his tenure (1984-91) in that capacity. He also worked with the offensive line at William & Mary. While Brattan was there, the Tribe took their play to new heights, advancing to the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs three times. From 1986 to 1990, William & Mary earned national rankings in three seasons (No. 9 in 1986; No. 13 in 1989; No. 7 in 1990). The success was largely a product of Brattan's offensive design as his unit ranked in the top 20 in offense in 1985 and '86, while it had the top-rated attack in Division I-AA for the 1990 season and the sixth-best in '91.

Brattan took his success at the I-AA level to his next job, Northwestern, where he resided from 1992-98 as offensive line coach. In Brattan's first three years at the school, the Wildcats continued their struggle to regain their winning ways, pushing their streak of seasons without a winning mark to 23. Then in 1995, the Wildcats were in the national spotlight as they came seemingly out of nowhere to win the Big Ten championship for the first time in 47 years and advance to the Rose Bowl where they ultimately fell to Southern California. They finished that season — despite the Rose Bowl loss — ranked seventh in the nation with a 10-2 record. Brattan's offensive line played a huge role in the team's success as it allowed just eight sacks all year while helping propel Darnell Autry to a new school rushing record. As a team, Northwestern finished fifth nationally that season in rushing.

The Wildcats went on to post a combined 15-1 conference record in 1995 and 1996, taking the Big Ten crown both years after having won just five league games in the three previous years. In '96, they earned a bid to play Tennessee in the Citrus Bowl.

Brattan got his start in coaching as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Delaware, in 1972. After one year in Newark, he took his first full-time coaching post at Highland Springs (Va.) High School as an offensive line coach. After three years (1973-75) at Highland Springs, he moved back to his home state and took his first head coaching job at McKean High School in 1977. He spent one year at McKean before moving back to Virginia and taking over as the head coach at Lloyd C. Bird High School. After serving at Bird in 1978, he returned to Highland Springs — this time as a head coach — for his final four years (1979-82) at the prep level. That final stint was a successful one, as he led HSHS to three district championships in his four years.

A native of Newark, Del., Brattan is a 1972 graduate of his hometown University of Delaware where he earned his bachelor's degree in history and later earned his master's degree in education in 1977. He was a member of the Blue Hen football team and earned a varsity letter in 1971. He and his wife, Anne, have three children — Kristen, Kate and Megan.

JAMES FRANKLIN

Wide Receivers
(East Stroudsburg '95)
Third Season

James Franklin is in his third year as wide receivers coach at Maryland. He joined the staff in April 2000 following a one-year stint as wide receivers and tight ends coach at Idaho State University.

A 1995 graduate of East Stroudsburg, where he was a Harlon Hill nominee for Division II Player of the Year, Franklin also has served on the coaching staffs at Washington State, James Madison, East Stroudsburg and Kutztown. He also has coached for the Roskilde Kings in the European League, serving as offensive coordinator in 1996.

In 1999, he oversaw an Idaho State receiver corps that amassed 29 touchdowns, 258 receptions and more than 3,300 receiving yards. The Bengals, who posted one of their best offensive seasons in school history, finished ninth nationally in total offense, averaging better than 30 points per game.

Franklin, 29, joined the Idaho State staff prior to the 1999 season after serving one year as an assistant coach at Washington State University where he worked primarily with the tight ends. At Washington State, he also assisted in the "Cougar Give Back Program," where he worked with local schools and hospitals on player appearances.

Prior to his position at Washington State, he spent the 1997 season as the wide receivers coach at James Madison University. In the summer of 1998, he worked alongside Joel Collier and Kippy Brown of the Miami Dolphins as an assistant running backs coach in the National Football League's minority internship program. In 1996, he served as a graduate assistant at East Stroudsburg, working primarily with the secondary.

In the summer of 1999, Franklin worked with the Philadelphia Eagles coaching staff as part of the NFL's minority internship program.

During his career, he has recruited the Maryland-Virginia area, as well as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia and California. He is currently responsible for recruiting in Pennsylvania, Florida and Maryland.

Franklin was a two-time Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference selection as a quarterback at East Stroudsburg, earning team MVP honors as a senior when he set seven school records, including single-season marks for total offense (3,128), passing yards (2,586) and TD passes (19). He was honored by Sports Illustrated as a national player of the week in October 1994.

He played one season of professional football in the European League, capturing league MVP honors in 1996 for the Danish national champions.

Franklin earned his master's degree in 1999 from Washington State.

MIKE LOCKSLEY

Running Backs Recruiting Coordinator (Towson '92) Sixth Season

Mike Locksley is in his sixth season as a running backs coach at the University of Maryland and his sixth as the team's recruiting coordinator.

In 2001, Locksley's running back corps continued its strong play since his arrival as the Terrapins entered the season without a definitive starter and ended it with sophomore Bruce Perry rushing for an ACC-best 1,242 yards, earning nods as a Doak Walker finalist, a second-team All-American and ACC Offensive Player of the Year. As a unit, the Terrapins rushed for an average of 220.7 yards per game (11th-best in Division I-A) while Perry and Marc Riley became just the fifth duo in ACC history to each rush for 10 TDs in the same season. In addition, the group of Terrapin fullbacks proved to be among the deepest and most talented in the country.

The 1999 season was one of the best for the Terrapin backfield as the Terps completed a dramatic turnaround in the rushing department, leading the ACC in average yards per game (234.1) just two seasons after finishing ninth in the league in that category. Led by second team All-American LaMont Jordan, who finished fifth nationally in rushing yards per game, Maryland ranked 12th in the country in rushing in 1999. Three seasons ago, the Terps registered the nation's sixth-biggest jump in rushing yards per game by nearly doubling their output from the previous season. Four years ago under Locksley's tutelage, Jordan broke most major Maryland freshman rushing standards on his way to finishing as a runner-up for ACC Rookie of the Year honors.

In addition to the accomplishments of the student-athletes that he oversees, Locksley has excelled in recent years at improving the caliber of player who chooses to go to school in College Park. The Terps' latest class was ranked among the best in the ACC and top 30 nationally by several recruiting services.

Born Christmas Day, 1969, in Washington, D.C., Locksley is a 1992 graduate of Towson University (business administration), where he was a three-year starter in the Tigers' backfield from 1988-91. Locksley, who started one year at cornerback and two at safety, was named his team's defensive MVP as a senior. He finished 19th on the school's all-time tackles list. Locksley also was a member of Towson's basketball team during the 1991-92 season.

Locksley began his coaching career overseeing special teams and defensive backs at his alma mater in 1992. He moved on to the United States Naval Academy Prep School (NAPS) in Newport, R.I., where he served as defensive coordinator, defensive line coach and head track & field coach.

In 1995, Locksley was named an assistant coach at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif., where he oversaw the outside linebackers and worked with special teams. He then returned to the East Coast the following year, accepting a position coaching the wide receivers and tight ends at Army. During his one-year stint at Army, the Cadets defeated rival Navy and appeared in the Independence Bowl. At Army, he helped develop tight end Ron Leshinski, who earned All-East honors.

Locksley, 32, and his wife, Kia, have three sons: Mike Jr., Meiko and Kai, and a daughter, Kori.

RAY RYCHLESKI

Special Teams Coordinator/ Tight Ends (Millersville '79) Second Season

Ray Rychleski is in his second year as Maryland's special teams coordinator and tight ends coach. He is in his 23rd year of coaching overall, and his 21st as a mentor at the collegiate level.

In his first year with the Terps, Rychleski's units were among the best in the ACC. Tight ends Jeff Dugan and Matt Murphy provided a strong blocking and pass catching tandem for the Terps, who had one of the most balanced offensive units in the country. Dugan continued to blossom into one of the nation's best blocking tight ends while Murphy came on as a receiver, parlaying his success into being selected by the Detroit Lions in the 2002 NFL Draft. Highlights from Rychleski's special teams units included the fourth-best net punting average in the nation and All-ACC recognition for punter Brooks Barnard (first team) and Nick Novak (honorable mention).

Prior to coming to College Park, Rychleski served for eight years at Wake Forest University where his tenure could best be described as diverse. For the 1999 and 2000 seasons, Rychleski was the Demon Deacons' tight ends coach while also serving as the team's special teams coordinator. For the three years prior to becoming tight ends coach and special teams coordinator (1996-98), he worked with WFU's outside linebackers. During his first three seasons at Wake (1993-95), Rychleski coached the defensive line.

Rychleski began his coaching career on the prep level in Pennsylvania in 1979 before heading to Temple University where he took a position as a graduate assistant. After a short time as the Owl's graduate assistant, he was promoted into his first full-time collegiate coaching post. He spent eight years at Temple (1981-88) before heading to Northeastern (1989-90) as a defensive coordinator/inside linebackers coach. After two years at Northeastern, Rychleski spent a year at Penn State (1991, graduate assistant) and one summer with the Toronto Argonauts (1992, defense) as a volunteer assistant.

In 1992, Rychleski was hired as a special teams coordinator and defensive backs coach at East Stroudsburg University where he helped the Warriors to their best record in 13 years. After his brief stint in Stroudsburg, he left for Wake Forest in 1993.

A native of Old Forge, Pa., Rychleski earned his degree in social studies from Millersville (Pa.) University in 1979.

AL SEAMONSON

Outside Linebackers/ Special Teams Assistant (Wisconsin '82) Second Season

Al Seamonson is in his second season as outside linebackers coach for the Terrapins. He also assists Ray Rychleski with the special teams.

In 2001, Seamonson's linebackers were part of a Maryland defense that was among the best units in the ACC and the nation. His players helped the Terps display a high-pressure style that produced the nation's fourth-best turnover margin (+1.45 average) and the ACC's lowest scoring defense (19.1 points per game).

Seamonson boasts 20 years of collegiate coaching experience. Prior to coming to Maryland, he spent the 2000 season at Bowling Green State University — where he worked under current Terp defensive coordinator Gary Blackney — as the Falcons' special teams coordinator and linebackers coach.

In his lone year at Bowling Green, Seamonson helped the Falcons produce a defensive unit that ranked fourth in the MAC in rushing defense and total defense. Hired by Blackney, who at the time was the Falcons' head coach, he was responsible — in addition to his duties with special teams and linebackers — for recruiting Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Florida.

Seamonson's coaching tenure prior to BGSU was weighted heavily in military settings. From 1987-99, he coached at The Citadel (The Military College of South Carolina), where he started as a wide receivers coach (1987) before serving the remainder of his tenure (1988-99) as special teams coordinator and linebackers coach. At The Citadel, Seamonson coached under current Terp offensive coordinator Charlie Taaffe and worked alongside defensive line coach Dave Sollazzo. He helped coach five linebackers to All-Southern Conference honors and one (J.J. Davis) to an appearance in the Senior Bowl. The highlight of his tenure was in 1992 when the Bulldogs led Division I-AA in scoring defense, yielding just 13.0 points per contest en route to a Southern Conference championship and advancing to the I-AA playoffs for the third time in five years.

The Citadel was not Seamonson's first taste of the military life, however, as he was a linebackers coach at the U.S. Military Academy (Army) in West Point, N.Y., for the 1985 and '86 seasons. In his first season at Army, the Cadets were one of the surprise teams in the country as they won the 1985 Peach Bowl, 31-29, over Illinois. It was one of just four times in the Academy's history that it had gone to a bowl game.

A 1982 graduate of Wisconsin and a two-year letterwinner for the Badgers at wide receiver, Seamonson got his start in coaching in Madison. In 1982, he served as a volunteer coach for Wisconsin's wide receivers. He then was a graduate assistant for the next two years where he worked for the Badgers' secondary unit.

Born September 7, 1959, in Stoughton, Wisc., Seamonson was a wide receiver at Stoughton High School and was a captain for the All-State Shrine Team in 1977. He and his wife, Kristi, have three children: Kylen, Kalvin and Karter.

ROD SHARPLESS

Inside Linebackers (Maryland '75) Eighth Season

Rod Sharpless is in his eighth season overall at Maryland and his second year in his current stint as the Terrapins' inside linebackers coach. Sharpless is a graduate of the University of Maryland and has coached twice previously in College Park.

Sharpless' main area of concentration with the Terps is with middle and strongside linebackers. Under his guidance, middle linebacker E.J. Henderson flourished in 2001, becoming one of the top defensive players in the nation. Last year, Henderson became Maryland's first consensus All-American since 1979, was named a finalist for the Dick Butkus Award, and earned recognition as the ACC Player and Defensive Player of the Year.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Sharpless was a member of the Rutgers football staff where he served as associate head coach from 1996-2000. In 1996 and '97, he was also the Scarlet Knights' defensive coordinator.

Sharpless came to Rutgers by way of Virginia Tech where he was a co-defensive coordinator and outside linebackers coach for three years (1993-95). Under his guidance, the Hokie defensive unit was one of the best in the country in 1995. That season, the Tech defense ranked first nationally against the run, fifth in scoring defense and 10th in total defense. Virginia Tech also went to three bowls in his three years as a coach in Blacksburg, winning the 1996 Sugar Bowl and the 1993 Independence Bowl. In his career as a coach and a player, Sharpless has participated in 12 bowl games.

Prior to his successful tenure at Virginia Tech, Sharpless coached at Cornell (1992), Maryland (1990-91; 1977-80), Kentucky (1982-89) and Richmond (1981). Like Friedgen, his time with the Terrapins has been marked by success as Maryland has gone to five bowls in his seven years as a coach, including the Terps' most recent trip to the Orange Bowl.

Sharpless' success at Maryland is not limited to his time spent in College Park as a coach, however. As a player, Sharpless was a starting linebacker on the 1974 ACC championship team that went to the Liberty Bowl and on the '73 team that played in the Peach Bowl. In 1974, he had 67 tackles and tied for third on the team with four sacks.

Sharpless got his first taste of coaching in the prep ranks as he was a football and track coach at Willingboro (N.J.) High School from 1975-77. Notably, he worked with eventual Olympic medalist Carl Lewis while serving as a track coach at Willingboro.

A native of Jacksonville, N.C., Sharpless earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education from Maryland in 1975 and went on to earn his master's from Bowie (Md.) State in education in 1981. He served in the United States Air Force for three-and-a-half years (1969-72) before enrolling at Maryland.

He is married to the former Linda DiColo who, as it turns out, has quite a history in College Park herself. A former assistant coach for the Terrapin women's lacrosse team – including the 1981 national champs and 1991 national runners-up — and the Maryland field hockey team, Linda also earned her master's from the university. The couple has an 11-year-old daughter, Victoria.

DAVE SOLLAZZO

Defensive Line (The Citadel '77) Second Season

Dave Sollazzo is in his second season in his current stint as defensive line coach at the University of Maryland. It is his fifth season overall at the university. Sollazzo was a defensive line coach for the Terps in 1986 and '87 as well as a graduate assistant in 1984.

In his first season back with the Terps, Sollazzo made quite an impact on his defensive line unit. He took a group that entered the 2001 season as a concern for the Terps, and turned it into a rock-solid group that helped anchor one of the top defenses in the ACC. Under his tutelage, nose tackle Charles Hill became an honorable mention All-ACC pick and, ultimately, a third-round draft choice of the upstart Houston Texans in the 2002 NFL Draft.

Prior to his current stint at Maryland, Sollazzo was at Georgia Tech in 1999 and 2000 as a defensive tackles coach. In his two years in Atlanta, Tech participated in a pair of bowl games — the Gator Bowl in 1999 and the Peach Bowl in 2000.

Prior to his appointment with the Yellow Jackets, Sollazzo was the defensive line coach at The Citadel from 1989-98. The Citadel was another homecoming for Sollazzo as he had lettered for the Bulldogs for three years on the defensive line from 1974-76. In that time, he started 33 consecutive games under former Maryland coach Bobby Ross. His position coach was Ralph Friedgen.

As a coach at The Citadel (where he was hired by Charlie Taaffe), Sollazzo coached Brad Keeney to All-America honors and Southern Conference-leading totals in sacks and tackles for loss in 1995. In addition, he coached nine other defensive linemen to all-conference honors while with the Bulldogs. The highlight of his coaching career in Charleston, however, may have been his involvement in helping The Citadel in 1992 to the Southern Conference championship and a No. 1 ranking at the end of the regular season. That '92 squad led the nation in scoring defense at 13 points per game and finished sixth in pass efficiency defense. In 1997, he was a part of an impressive defensive effort in which the Bulldogs finished their season by not allowing a touchdown in their final 13 quarters.

Along with his ties to Maryland and The Citadel, Sollazzo has an extensive history in prep coaching. With the exception of the Maryland job in 1984 (a season that saw the Terps win the ACC and earn a berth in the Sun Bowl), Sollazzo was a high school defensive coordinator in South Carolina from 1978-85.

Sollazzo was born in Harrison, N.Y., on December 24, 1955, and earned his degree from The Citadel in 1977. He is married to the former Ellen Beloin of Farmington, Conn.

TOM DEAHN

Dir. of Football Operations (Heidelberg '87) Fourth Season

Tom Deahn is in his fourth year on the Maryland football staff and his third as director of football operations. He served as assistant recruiting coordinator during the 1999 season. His administrative responsibilities include daily management of the football program, including operations, team travel and schedule coordination.

Deahn came to Maryland following a five-year stint at St. Norbert College in DePere, Wisc., where he spent time as assistant head coach, recruiting coordinator, offensive coordinator and quarterbacks/wide receivers coach. He also served as travel coordinator and equipment manager for a 19-sport program. While at St. Norbert, he coached two offensive linemen to All-America honors and 15 players to all-conference honors.

During each of the team's last three seasons, Deahn's offenses at St. Norbert set school records for single-season all-purpose yards while ranking among national statistical leaders.

Prior to his arrival at St. Norbert, he spent three years at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., where his responsibilities included serving as recruiting coordinator and strength coordinator during his stay. Catholic's defense ranked second in the country in 1993. Two of his players received All-America recognition.

Deahn played collegiately at Heidelberg College in Ohio, where he was a member of two nationally ranked teams.

Deahn and his wife, Dawn, have a daughter, Amanda.

DWIGHT GALT

Dir. of Strength & Conditioning (Maryland '81) Ninth Season

Dwight Galt, a member of the Terps' strength staff since 1989, is in his ninth year as Maryland's director of strength and conditioning. His responsibilities include managing the department's three training facilities and coordinating strength and conditioning programs for the Terps' 25 varsity sports, with special emphasis on football.

Galt, who earned his bachelor's degree in business management (1981) and his master's degree in exercise physiology (1989) from the University of Maryland, is a member of the National Strength and Conditioning Association, the United States Powerlifting Federation and the Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches Association.

Galt began his strength career as a volunteer in 1984 and assisted with the training of the 1984 and 1985 ACC champion football teams. In '89, he earned full-time status at the university and for three years worked with all of Maryland's intercollegiate sports programs. In 1992, Galt became the assistant strength coach for football and he is now in his 11th year of providing complete athletic development training to Terp football team members.

Galt, 45, and his wife Jan are natives of Hyattsville, Md., and have four children: Angie, Teri, Dwight IV and Tommy.

JOHN DONOVAN

Asst. Recruiting Coordinator (Johns Hopkins '97) Second Season

John Donovan is in his second season with the Terrapins as assistant recruiting coordinator.

Donovan is a familiar face to coaches Ralph Friedgen and Dave Sollazzo as he served as a graduate assistant for the Georgia Tech offense from 1998-2000. While with the Yellow Jackets, one of his responsibilities was helping Friedgen with game plan and practice preparation.

Prior to his tenure in Atlanta, Donovan worked as an assistant secondary coach at Villanova, helping the Wildcats in 1997 to a 12-1 season and a No. 1 ranking in the season's final six weeks.

A 1997 graduate of Johns Hopkins and three-year starter for the Blue Jays' football team, Donovan was twice named an all-conference defensive back. He went on to earn his master's degree in economics while working at Georgia Tech.

BRIAN FLINN

Graduate Assistant (Mount Union '97) Second Season

Brian Flinn is in his second season as a graduate assistant with the Terps. Flinn works with the Terrapin offense in breaking down opponent film, working with the scout team and assisting with the offensive line.

Flinn came to College Park from Villanova University where he worked with the Wildcats' tight ends in 2000. While at Villanova, he helped with the offensive line and in evaluating opponent game film. Flinn's first graduate assistantship was at Drake University where he worked with the wide receivers.

Flinn began his coaching career at his alma mater, Mount Union College, in 1998. That season he worked with wide receivers before moving on as an assistant with outside linebackers in '99.

A wide receiver and all-conference tight end for the Raiders from 1993-96, Flinn earned bachelor's degrees in business and philosophy from the Ohio college.

GREG SESNY

Graduate Assistant (Catholic '99) Second Season

Greg Sesny is in his second season at Maryland as a graduate assistant, working with the Terrapins' defense. Among his duties are breaking down opponent film, working with the scout team and assisting with the secondary.

Sesny is no stranger to the area after spending the last six years as either a player or a coach at The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. He started at Catholic in 1995 and ultimately became a three-year starter at tight end/H-back for the Crusaders. In his three years as a starter, CUA went 27-4 and qualified for the NCAA playoffs twice.

After graduating with a degree in electrical engineering in 1999, Sesny went on to serve as CUA's tight ends coach in 1999 and added receivers coach to his duties in 2000. He also worked as an assistant basketball coach for the Cardinals while teaching math, science and computer science at Bishop McNamara High School in Forestville, Md.

MITCH WILKENS

Video Coordinator (Tennessee '97) Second Season

Mitch Wilkens is in his second season working with the University of Maryland football program as video coordinator.

Wilkens and his staff videotape all Terrapin football practices, scrimmages and games and then employ the recently-purchased Pinnacle Sports Pro video equipment to edit and break down the footage to best serve the needs of coaches and players.

Wilkens came to Maryland by way of the University of Pittsburgh where he served the Panthers as a video coordinator during the 2000 season. Prior to his stint in Pittsburgh, Wilkens spent time as the video coordinator at UMass and Louisiana Tech. He got his start as an assistant at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee, in 1997.

Wilkens is married to the former Nicole Radu of Pittsburgh.

RON OHRINGER

Head Equipment Manager (Maryland '85) 15th Season

Ron Ohringer is in his 15th year as the Terrapins' head equipment manager. Ohringer oversees the ordering, inventory, maintenance and distribution of all athletic equipment for the university's 25 intercollegiate sports programs. While managing the overall equipment operation for the entire department, Ohringer primarily serves as the football equipment manager on a day-to-day basis.

A native of nearby Bethesda, Md., Ohringer graduated from Maryland with a bachelor's degree in journalism and public relations in 1985. While a student in College Park, he served the football team as a manager and was the team's head student manager for his final three years.

Following graduation, Ohringer utilized his degree by serving as an assistant with both the Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. He also worked with the Washington Commandos of the Arena Football League and the minor league Alexandria Dukes.

Ohringer was married on November 28, 1992 to the former Amy Brennan. The couple resides in Burtonsville, Md., and have two children: Casey Ryan (5) and Derek James (1).

2002 SEASON PREVIEW

Times have changed in College Park and they have done so quickly.

It had to be the hope when Ralph Friedgen was hired more than a year ago that the Terrapin football team would turn the corner from a program on the verge of success to one that could be considered a success. That hope, however, was pushed aside quickly as the 2001 Terps made their way through the regular season with just one loss and ultimately found themselves in a Bowl Championship Series game.

Where the Maryland program finds itself now is in a whole different place. Attention has intensified from the public, the media and the rest of the conference, and the Terrapins are sure to find themselves with different expectations than in years past.

With all that said, the Terps return 15 starters (eight offense, five defense, two specialists) from last year's ACC championship team. They enter the season with a year in Friedgen's system under their belts, the knowledge of his expectations, and the experience of what it takes to succeed. Moreover, they enter the season with the ACC's offensive (Bruce Perry), defensive (E.J. Henderson) and overall (Henderson) players of the year on the roster, and a chance for the first time in 16 years to repeat as conference champion.

The focus early in '02 will be in finding a new face to run the offensive system at quarterback. In addition, the team will need to find a new starter at center where a player who started every game the last four years has graduated and left for the NFL. It will need to find a starter at the nose tackle spot which was vacated by the defensive line's top performer of a year ago; two starters and several key backups at linebacker; and, finally, both safety spots.

The spring sought to have answered all of those questions, and the Terrapins enter the season seemingly in good hands. Injuries could play a role early – as they already have at the quarterback position – but should the Terps remain healthy as they did a year ago, they will again likely be a team to contend with on the conference and national levels.

The following is a position-by-position look at where the 2002 version of the Maryland Terrapins are at the start of Ralph Friedgen's second season as head coach in College Park.

OFFENSE

The offense returns eight starters and many other key contributors from a unit which came on as one of the most balanced attacks in college football. Last year, Maryland averaged 35.5 points per game while posting an average of 439.7 yards of offense per game. The 390 points the Terps scored were the most ever by a Maryland team.

Several important players from last year's group have graduated, but one stands out as the key that needs replacing – quarterback Shaun Hill. Ralph Friedgen said many times a year ago that he would like to have Hill for three more years. Unfortunately, Hill was a senior. But what is lost in Hill's experience and moxie, this year's group of quarterbacks may be able to make up in athleticism and arm strength. The injury to Chris Kelley in this year's spring game is a chink in the offense's armor, but it did not leave it empty handed.

In the end, it is still an offense that returns the ACC Offensive Player of the Year, a deep corp of fullbacks, four starters on the offensive line, talented receivers who are more settled in the system than a year ago and a strong group of tight ends.

"If things work out with our quarterback situation, we have a chance to have a good offense," said Friedgen. "As an offensive unit, we are better because the understanding is improved from last year. I like some of the things I see; we just have to get a quarterback where we need him. We aren't in bad shape at quarterback. We are just going through a lot of the things that we went through with Shaun (Hill) last year. The difference this time is that everybody else is a year ahead."

Quarterback

The Terrapins went into spring ball with all eyes focused on the quarterback position with three players vying for the starting job. After 14 practices, it became apparent that the Terps had established a pecking order with sophomore Chris Kelley holding a slight edge over junior transfers Scott McBrien and Orlando Evans on the eve of the annual Red & White game.

The three-way competition, however, turned into a two-man race as bad fortune struck Kelley for the third time in as many years when he tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee while scrambling for extra yardage in the early going of the spring game. Kelley had performed well all spring and looked as if he was making a return to the form that had made him a highly-recruited prep and touted as a future standout at Maryland, but his latest setback put those plans on hold once again.

The cupboard, however, is not bare for Maryland as the southpaw McBrien now enters fall camp atop the depth chart. The junior who sat out last year after transferring from West Virginia had a strong spring in his own right, showing a strong, accurate arm and good athleticism while having the ability to move the offense. He spent last season running the scout team offense and was a big help to the defense's efforts as he posed a legitimate threat in their preparation for each week's contest. As it was for Shaun Hill the year before, the lone concern is his comfort level with the offense, but out of all the quarterbacks on the Terrapin roster, McBrien boasts the most game experience after seeing action while at WVU (most notably 252 passing yards in three quarters of action against Notre Dame as a redshirt frosh in 2000).

Evans will enter fall drills as the number two quarterback, although a few strong performances could have him in the mix as a starter. A JC transfer who started out at Oregon, Evans is a mobile quarterback who throws well with a quick release and was rated as one of the top junior college quarterbacks in the country and the 23rd-best JC player overall (any position) by SuperPrep magazine. Last year, he completed 165 of 251 (.657) passes for 2,391 yards and 28 touchdowns en route to a perfect 12-0 season at City College of San Francisco. Like McBrien, his understanding of the offense is a concern, but Friedgen likes where he was after just 15 practices with the team in spring.

"His understanding is better than what I could have expected out of a junior college kid coming in," said Friedgen.

The third-string job will be determined in the fall, but Hunter Cross – another West Virginia transfer – is the early leader for that spot. Cross is a strong, heady player with a solid work ethic who will get a push from newcomers Sam Hollenbach and Joel Statham. The two freshmen enter with solid prep credentials despite varying styles. Hollenbach is more of a pocket passer who already has ideal size (6-5, 215) while Statham is more of an athlete who excels at running the option.

"The progress that these guys make this summer and early in the fall will go a long way in determining who our starting quarterback is," said Friedgen. ""Scott has a strong arm and the potential to be a real good passer and Orlando is a good athlete. Overall, how they develop and which one is able to step up will play a major role in what kind of offensive football team we are."

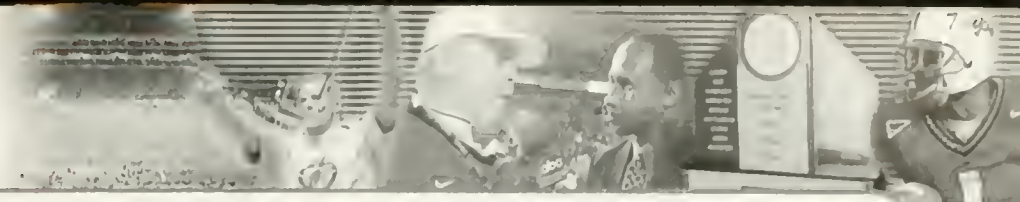
Junior tailback Bruce Perry returns as the reigning ACC Offensive Player of the Year.



Tailback

The tailback position is one that has been a consistent source of optimism over the last five years in College Park. Four strong years of LaMont Jordan were followed by a 2001 season which began with a big question mark over who the starter would be; a question ultimately answered in resounding fashion by then-sophomore Bruce Perry.

Perry enters this season as the lone returning finalist from last year's Ooak Walker Award after rushing for 1,242 yards and 10 touchdowns en route to being named the ACC Offensive Player of the Year. In addition, he is the Terrapins' leading returning receiver (40 receptions) and the nation's eighth-best returnee in all-purpose yards (156.2 ypg). The lone question about Perry entering 2002 is his health.

Perry missed all of spring practice with an abdominal injury, the same one that hobbled him the week of the Orange Bowl. He had a procedure done in late April to correct the problem and it is expected that he will be ready to go at the start of fall camp.

The other primary returnee to the tailback position, Jason Crawford, also went into spring with injury problems (hip) but he overcame them and participated in spring ball. He had his moments, displaying the hard-charging running style that makes him the favorite to take over Marc Riley's role as a short-yardage specialist a year ago. Crawford will have to come on, but it is not out of the question that he could push Perry should injuries linger.

As successful as last year's group of tailbacks were, this year's group could have an added dimension should Mario Merrills continue his progress. Merrills adds another home run threat to the backfield as he may be the speediest Terrapin back and he excels in space. He will also vie for kickoff return duties, a job at which he performed admirably in the spring game (6 returns, 163 yards).

Other contenders for playing time this fall include senior Chris Oowns and incoming freshmen Josh Allen and J.P. Humber. Oowns looked good in the offseason and will see the field in one capacity or another (he played special teams last year) while Humber will have the added benefit from a conditioning standpoint of being on campus in the summer.

"Our situation should be pretty good at running back this year," said Friedgen. "We should have some depth at the position especially after the arrival of our two newcomers, J.P Humber and Josh Allen. It will be interesting to see where they fit in. The big question will be Bruce's health and how good he can be when he gets in. We all know what he can do when he is healthy; we just need him to be the player he was when he was healthy last year and work to improve on that. If not, he will get a challenge from Mario Merrills and Jason Crawford, both of whom had their moments in the spring."

Fullback

Last season, the Terrapins were as deep and talented at fullback as any team in the conference. This season, the team looks like it is still in good hands as all three players who saw significant playing time a year ago return. The only question among returnees is whether or not Bernie Fiddler will remain at the position.

James Lynch returns after serving as Maryland's primary starter at fullback a year ago. Lynch is a hulking 271 pounds and spent the offseason maintaining his size while adding muscle. He is an excellent blocking back with a feel for the game and quick feet which help him with blocking for the option. This season, Lynch is expected to get more chances as a runner as he has shown the ability to move the ball inside.

A starter for three games a year ago, Chad Killian returns for his senior year. One of Killian's strengths is in running the ball, but he proved to be an effective blocker in spelling Lynch last year. As always, Killian is one of the strongest players on the team pound-for-pound. In teaming with Lynch, the Terps will have a fresh pair of legs at the position at all times.

Just how fresh Maryland's fullbacks are will, surprisingly, depend on the health of the team's linebackers. Oue to injury at the linebacker position and the fact that coaches believed he was simply too talented to keep on the sideline, Fiddler spent the spring working at middle linebacker. He left spring working behind Andrew Henley and could continue at that spot, but should the linebackers be in good shape, he will return to fullback. Fiddler had a strong season last year at the position and proved his worth as a blocker. He is also a solid pass-catcher and an adequate rushing fullback.

"We are in better shape at fullback than most football teams can boast from a depth perspective," said Friedgen. "Some teams have three fullbacks who can play, but we feel all three of ours are starting-caliber. James (Lynch) had a good spring for us and really looks like he is coming on. He is a very instinctive football player and doesn't make a lot of mistakes. Chad (Killian) is a guy who plays hard and will play a lot of football for us this year. If he stays at fullback, Fiddler is a kid we can count on to block and perform for us as well."

Wide Receiver

All but one receiver (Guilian Gary) who saw significant playing time a year ago returns in 2002. That is a positive considering that at this time a year ago, Friedgen was professing that the passing game would simply need time to improve.

One of the interesting stories of the spring came from one of the new faces that will be working at the position. Junior Latrez Harrison seems to have excelled in the transition from quarterback, a move that was made in an attempt to get an athletic player more time on the field. Harrison has ideal size (6-3, 217) and showed the ability to pull away from defenders when scrambling as a quarterback, and his time as a signal caller gives him an offensive perspective few receivers have. The success he had in the spring culminated with a Red & White game which saw him snag two receptions for 80 yards and a pair of touchdowns. If his progress can continue, the Terrapins may have an outstanding find on their hands.

Of the returning wideouts, Jafar Williams is one of the players expected to benefit from a year in the offense. Williams was the team's third-leading receiver a year ago (39-425, 2TDs) and showcases the size, strength and speed that Friedgen seeks in a receiver. His route running will be improved this season and with his skills, the difference could push him to the level of some of the top-flight receivers in the conference.

Joining Williams in the starting lineup will be Scooter Monroe, a senior who also had his best season in 2001 and will be expected to contribute more in '02. Monroe also looked good in the offseason and will be a nice complement to Williams from the "Z" position.

"Those three players (Harrison, Monroe and Williams) are going to be the mainstay of our outside receivers," said Friedgen.

Also competing at the "Z" position will be a pair of players who could gain notice in their first years on the field and two more who will simply be seeing their first action at Maryland. Oerrick Fenner and Onnie Onwuemene both stepped up in the offseason and likely earned a spot in the rotation. Fenner is a hard-working player who has climbed his way up the depth chart in his first year with the program, while Onwuemene showed a burst of speed and came virtually out of nowhere to catch four balls for 117 yards and a TD in the spring game. They will be joined by newcomers Chris Choice and Oan Melendez, a pair of recruits from the 2002 signing class.

Behind Williams and Harrison at the "X" are Ike Roberts and Maurice Shanks. Roberts is a gritty, hard-working sophomore while Shanks is trying to make it back from knee injuries suffered in last year's "Scout Bowl." Shanks could be a player who can make a contribution based on his size (6-4, 191) and speed.

At the slot, Steve Suter came on in the spring and showed that his amazing workout numbers can translate to the field. The fastest player on the team (4.35 in the 40-yard dash), Suter showed the ability to get down the middle of the field and stretch the defense, a quality that can do wonders in Friedgen's offense. He will share playing time with Rich Parson, a player who made a successful conversion from tailback a year ago and was a solid contributor from the slot position by season's end.

"Just from the standpoint of learning, our receivers should be improved this year," said Friedgen. "I could see in the offseason that there was a better understanding of route-running and what it takes to get open. Our quarterbacks throw the deep ball well so I am hoping that we can get down field more with it this season."

Tight End

The Terps are set with their primary starter at tight end in honors candidate Jeff Ougan. What the team will look to find are players who can supplement what Ougan offers with another pass-catching threat as well as another blocker for two tight end formations.

Ougan enters his junior season having established himself as one of the premier blocking tight ends in the country. He had a solid freshman campaign from a receiving standpoint (finished second on the team in receiving) but had a bit of a drop off a year ago. With the loss of Matt Murphy to graduation, Ougan will have a better shot to catch more balls and his route running and assertiveness seemed to improve in the offseason. The hope is that he will continue to improve and become a more integral part of the offense.

The offseason produced a player who looks like he is ready to contribute as Derek Miller showed receiving skills that moved him to second on the depth chart. Miller, a redshirt freshman, has added some bulk (257 pounds) to his 6-8 frame and has shown that he can get the job done as a blocker. Though his speed has dropped a little with the added weight, Miller can still get down the field while his height and good hands make him a tough matchup for smaller linebackers and defensive backs. He could be a player to watch should his development continue.

Competing with Miller for playing time are Ryan Flynn, Brandon Thomas and Brad Schell. Flynn is an aggressive blocker who is comparable in size (6-4, 262) to Dugan (6-4, 266). Thomas has good height at 6-5 but needs to add size as Miller did in the offseason. Schell is a true freshman with good speed and solid prep credentials who could get playing time at tight end or at the H-back position should he be able to pick up the offense.

"(Jeff) Dugan has improved as a pass receiver this offseason and that is a plus when you consider that he is likely the best blocking tight end in the league," said Friedgen. "Derek Miller has also made some strides and I think we are in good shape at tight end. It will be interesting to see how much (Brad) Schell can pick up and whether or not he can play a role, but either way we are set with Dugan. Hopefully one of these other guys can step up and fill a role like Matt Murphy did last year."

Offensive Line

The unit that returns the most experience and potential for success this season is the offensive line. Maryland returns four starters from last year's team with the lone spot to fill being at center. The shoes to fill there are large as the departed player is four-year starter and All-ACC performer Melvin Fowler, but the Terps look like they haven't missed a beat as the season approaches.

Fowler was the anchor of a line that helped produce record offensive numbers a year ago (4,837 yards and a school-record 390 points), and filling his leadership role will be a tall order. Kyle Schmitt and Jason Holman went into the offseason as the favorites to replace Fowler, and Schmitt emerged from that competition as the clear favorite. Just a sophomore, Schmitt took advantage of the opportunity and looked good in the offseason. He has better size (6-5, 298) than Fowler, and if he can assume some of the leadership and show some of the quickness that Fowler did, the line will be a formidable one.

At the other spots, Maryland can only be considered in better shape than it was a year ago. C.J. Brooks returns at left tackle after a strong freshman campaign in which he earned Freshman All-America honors from The Sporting News. He drew a challenge in the spring from junior Eric Dumas, but held his ground and will enter fall camp as the starter. Whatever competition emerges from those two is a win-win situation for the Terps as both are exceptionally talented players. Right tackle will be manned by 2001 Piccolo Award winner Matt Crawford who seems to have completely overcome the knee injury that he began with last season and whose mobility is dramatically improved. There is solid depth behind him in the form of Lou Lombardo, a player who played well when called upon last year.

At guard, first team All-ACC selection Todd Wike returns for his senior year on the left side. He is an intelligent player with good feet who will likely assume some of the leadership roles along with fellow senior Crawford. Heading into 2002, Wike has been listed as a candidate for both the Outland and Lombardi awards. Backing him up are Ed Tyler and Russell Bonham with Bonham being a player the Terps would like to step up and be ready to play in the near future. On the right side, Lamar Bryant returns and will be joined at the spot by Reggie Kemp. Bryant played well in the spring and looks like he is ready to join the ranks as another player to watch on the line. All in all, it is as Friedgen predicted it would be over a year ago – one of the most experienced, talented groups on the team.

"Our depth is a little bit of a concern, but the guys we will line up with the starting unit stack up pretty well," said Friedgen. "It would be real good if we could get some of our younger guys to make the next step, but overall I would say the line is in good shape."

DEFENSE

The Terrapin defensive unit was outstanding with few exceptions a year ago. Coach Gary Blackney's unit used a high-pressure, blitzing style that stymied opponent's rushing attacks while forcing turnovers when they went to the air.

In 2001, the Terps had the best rushing (90.6 opp. ypg) and scoring (19.1 opp. ppg) defense in the ACC and ranked in the top seven nationally in interceptions (2nd; 24) and turnovers gained (T7th; 34). It was a defense that took pressure off of the Maryland offense early in the season while helping it win close games later in the year.

Maryland will return its most recognizable name to the defensive unit – senior E.J. Henderson – but his availability at the start of the season will be one of the keys to the team's success. Henderson underwent a surgical procedure on his back in early spring and his availability for the Notre Dame game will likely not be determined until game week nears.

The effects of his presence, however, cannot be overlooked. A healthy Henderson gives less experienced players time to wait in the wings, younger players a shot at whatever position comes natural and helps the Terps line up with one of the premier players in the nation.

The defense is not short on talent, but it is not long in the tooth either, and several new faces will be in the mix as fall camp opens. The defensive line is strong but could use depth, the linebacking corps are talented with a mix of youth and experience, and the defensive backfield basically has three new faces in the starting lineup. All signs suggest that the Terrapins will again be strong and will likely get better with the passing of each game.

"We are going to be very young on defense this year," said Friedgen. "E.J.'s health will be important to us early and it will be interesting to see what some of the newcomers can do to contribute. I think we will again have a good defense – we just have some questions that will need to be answered along the way."

Defensive Line

The defensive line was one of the most pleasant surprises of the 2001 season. The Terp defensive front was one that entered the year with questions surrounding talent and depth. What emerged was a group that both held up against the run and collapsed the pocket in passing situations and, ultimately, became the front line of one of the ACC's top defensive units.

This year, the defensive line has questions to be answered as well, but those questions again circle more around depth than anything else. The unit is comparable to its counterpart on the offensive side of the ball as it lost just one starter from a year ago. Unfortunately, like the offensive line, that lost starter (Charles Hill) happened to be the player who was most important to the unit's success a year ago. Hill was the team's second-leading tackler and a quiet leader on the Terrapin defense. "Charles (Hill) played very, very well for us last year," said Friedgen. ""He was the guy in the middle that kind of held everything together."

Spring ball gave Maryland the answers it was looking for at Hill's old position as C.J. Feldheim stepped up and showed he is fully capable of making the shift in lining up over the ball. The shift is Feldheim's third in as many years as a Terp (end as a freshman; defensive tackle last year), but if his transition a year ago is any indicator, this year's move will be smooth and his improvement will continue. Feldheim posted 36 tackles, five tackles for loss and three sacks a year ago and established himself as a player to watch in the next two years. Feldheim will be backed up by senior William Shimé and junior Tosin Abari. Shimé is a player with all of the physical tools and if he can step up his play in his final year, the Terrapins could have a nice rotation going at tackle.

Joining Feldheim in the middle of the line will be another player to watch, second-year man Randy Starks. Starks (35 tackles, seven TFLs, 3.5 sacks) — one of just four true freshmen to play last year — displayed outstanding athleticism and strength and enters this season in better shape than a year ago strength-wise. Starks runs well for a man his size (302 pounds) and posted the fifth-highest strength index on the team in spring testing. He is versatile enough to spell Feldheim if necessary and he could also move outside and play end in certain situations.

Also competing at the tackle spot will be second-year player Akil Patterson and true freshman Dave Quaintance. Quaintance's contribution will depend on his ability to pick up the system in the fall while Patterson seems to be catching on as his performance in this year's spring game indicated (four sacks).

At defensive end, Durrand Roundtree returns for his senior season after performing well in his first full year as a starter. He is an outstanding physical force who stands to improve on his numbers of a year ago (4.5 sacks, 5 TFLs) after he was hampered by injury in several games in the second half of the season.

Roundtree will share time with Scott Smith, a player who has shown a penchant for being able to get up field and rush the passer. He had surgery on his back prior to spring, but he performed well in the offseason and looks like he will be a factor this season. Kevin Eli, Landon Jones and Henry Scott are other players who could also factor in at end.

"Again, it's hard to lose a player like Charles Hill, but C.J. Feldheim looks like he may be ready to step up and fill that spot," said Friedgen. "Feldheim and Starks are solid on the inside and I saw real improvement in the offseason out of Durrand Roundtree and Scott Smith at end. We could still use depth, but the line overall is solid and it will be interesting to see the progression of some of our younger players."

Linebacker

The linebacking corps finds itself as one of the more interesting units on the Terrapin roster. On one hand, it has the most talent and experience of any position on the Maryland defense. On the other hand, it is a position that has some question marks as fall camp opens due to injury and graduation. It is a position that could start the season a little short-handed while at the same time, it could finish the season as one of the top units on the team.

The most recognizable cog is senior E.J. Henderson, a player who made a name for himself nationally in 2001 while earning consensus All-American and ACC Player and Defensive Player of the Year recognition. It is a given that Henderson will start in the middle ("Mike") and be the anchor of the Terp defense as he was a year ago. The question is what game will be his first as he underwent surgery on his back in early April. When he does find the field – whether it is in the opener or not – Henderson can be counted on to lead the defense with his hard-nosed play that finds him making plays from sideline to sideline and, more often than not, in the opposition's backfield.

Backing up Henderson at "Mike" will be Andrew Henley and possibly Bernie Fiddler while newcomer Reggie Holmes will also get a look. Henley is an athletic playmaker who will likely get the nod should Henderson's health be an issue. Fiddler will back him up unless the position looks in good hands (i.e., Henderson is healthy) in which case he will likely move back to fullback. Meanwhile, Holmes is a high school All-American who — at a minimum — will have a chance to watch and learn from the best this school has seen in an effort to groom him for future playing time.

At the "Will" (weakside) linebacker spot, Leon Joe looks to continue his trek toward becoming one of the top linebackers in the ACC. Joe is as athletic as any player on the roster and showed at times last year the ability to make plays all over the field. After getting his feet wet as a starter a year ago, big things are expected in this, his junior season. Behind Joe, there is a cluster of players who will be vying for playing time in the fall. Curtis Williams and Maurice Smith both saw time there in the spring. Williams is a converted safety who has a nose for the ball and made big plays when on the field last year, whether it was in a game or scrimmage situation. Smith played mostly on special teams as a true freshman, but will get more of a look at linebacker this season. In addition, a pair of newcomers – D'Qwell Jackson and William Kershaw — will also have a chance to earn playing time this fall.

The "Sam" (strongside) linebacker position will be a highly-contested battle for the starting job as a pair of returnees look to replace the departed Aaron Thompson. Leroy Ambush performed well in the spring and came away atop the depth chart while second-year player Ricardo Dickerson (last year's scout team co-player of the year on defense) will continue to push the speedy junior for the starting role. Dickerson is a hitter who combines good speed, quickness, cover skills and aggressiveness. His primary needs right now are experience and comfort in the defensive system.

Though the competition for the starting strongside position will be tight, happenings at the "Leo" (rush end) position could be the most dynamic at the start of fall camp. Last year's starter (Mike Whaley) did not make the cut academically and the one certainty is that a new face will man the position. Sophomore Jamahl Cochran, sophomore Jon Condo and junior college transfer Andrew Wojcik all participated in spring drills and enter fall camp listed in that order on the depth chart. Cochran is a solid run-stopper and Condo is attempting to see time beyond his duties as a long snapper, while Wojcik is a junior college transfer who was shifted from end in the spring.

Where the position gets interesting is with the influx of newcomers who are expected to challenge for anything from playing time to the starting role. Chief among the candidates at "Leo" are Shawne Merriman and Randy Earle. Merriman enters his first season as one of the most decorated players of the incoming recruiting class, while Earle has good size and showed the ability to get upfield as a prep despite nearly constant double-teams. In all, any one of five players could end up taking the first snap against Notre Dame on August 31st, and preseason will be an interesting one to watch at "Leo."

"Obviously, E.J. Henderson is a big key to our linebacking unit," said Friedgen. "If we can get him back healthy, we will be able to keep from shuffling people around that much. Overall, we have some real talent at linebacker and it will be a position to watch down the road with some of our newcomers. Players like Shawne Merriman, Reggie Holmes and D'Qwell Jackson will get a look this year and hopefully we can find a good mix between who is healthy and who is ready to play."

Defensive Back

When a team enters a new season having lost three of four starters in a given unit, it is safe to assume that there will be question marks at that position. And while both starting safeties from a year ago have graduated and a corner who started half of the season (Tony Okanlawon) is also gone, the Terrapins seem to be in good hands in the defensive backfield with some faces who are not unfamiliar ones around the Gossett Football Team House.

At cornerback, a pair of players return who drew starting assignments in 2001. Junior Curome Cox is the veteran of the entire defensive backfield, having started 19 games in the last two seasons. He is a solid corner with good speed, size and strength who posted three interceptions and three pass breakups a year ago. Battling for playing time behind him will be Jamal Chance who is hoping to contribute more in his second year with the program, while senior Luke Kim and true freshman Jo Jo Walker will also get a look.

At the other corner, second-year player Domonique Foxworth enters the season as the starter. Foxworth played well in his first season at the position and should be improved from an experience standpoint alone. He is a hard-working player who showed promise late in the season when called upon in 2001 (he was originally slated to redshirt but was forced to play because of injuries at the position). Foxworth will compete with Gerrick McPhearson — a player who redshirted last year after being signed in the same class as Foxworth – and transfer Reuben Haigler, a former teammate of Chance's at Lackawanna JC. On the whole, the group is young, but not without experience or talent.

Safety will see a pair of new starters following the losses of Randall Jones and Tony Jackson to graduation. At strong safety, Dennard Wilson and Ty Stewart are at the top of the depth chart with Wilson entering the fall as the starter. A four-game starter in the last two years at cornerback, Wilson has the hitting ability and instinct that may prove to be better suited to safety while adding another player with strong cover skills to the safety position. Stewart came on a year ago and showed big-play ability in the nickel package. Also in the mix at strong safety will be another converted corner who has seen playing time in the past, Andrew Smith.

The free safety spot will be manned by a player who had coaches champing at the bit last season. Madieu Williams had to sit out 2001 due to NCAA transfer rules, but he heads into his first season at the Division I-A level as a player to watch based on the praise he has already earned from coaches and the work ethic he has shown since his arrival. He is the complete package with size (6-1, 193), cover skills and speed, and he adds a playmaking quality to the secondary. What's more, he can also play strong safety or corner which could come in handy should any adjustments need to be made to the rotation along the way. He will be supported by Raymond Custis, who had a strong spring, and Marcus Wimbush, a highly-regarded newcomer who made a name as a big hitter as a prep.

"Coach Blackney has some real quality guys in his unit," said Friedgen. "When I say that, I mean we have some real good kids who we can count on getting great effort out of at all times. Our corners are solid and will get better as the season progresses. Dennard (Wilson) seems to be working out well at safety and Madieu Williams is a heck of a football player who has the talent to play any spot in our defensive backfield. With the addition of some new guys and players like Jamal Chance continuing to improve, our depth should get better as well."

Senior Brooks Barnard is a Ray Guy Award candidate for the third year in a row.

One thing Maryland was sure of as it entered last season was that it would boast one of the best punters in the country. A year later it can extend that claim as it stands to have one of the most complete kicking games in the country if it can only maintain the level at which it performed in the second half of last season.

Brooks Barnard returns for his senior year and his final bid at the Ray Guy Award. Barnard has been in the top seven nationally in each of the last two years and has been a weapon for the Terps in terms of field position. A first team All-ACC selection last year, Barnard stands to close his career as Maryland's all-time punting leader as he carries a 43.9-yard career average into the season. In spring ball, he also showed ability on kickoffs, a role he will challenge for in the fall while also serving as the Terrapins' holder on field goals and extra points.

The placekicker spot started off a bit shaky a year ago, but was solidified by year's end and ultimately became one of the strong points of the team. Nick Novak earned honorable mention All-ACC honors after a tremendous start to his collegiate career a year ago. He showed moxie in a game-winning kick at Georgia Tech and consistency the remainder of the year while hitting 12 of his final 14 field goal attempts in the regular season with his only misses coming from 50 and 62 yards, respectively. Novak worked to improve his leg strength in the offseason and heads into 2002 as the Terps' top placekicker. Newcomer Adam Podlesh will also be in the mix at kicker.

One position that will see some competition this year is long snapper. Jon Condo was strong in the position last year while Jesse Kluttz has come on in the offseason and improved his snapping skills

Among the names to watch in the return game are Mario Merrills, Steve Suter and Rich Parson. Merrills showed the ability to find the seam on kickoffs in the spring while Suter looked good in that role as well as on punts. Parson showed promise last season handling kickoff and punt return duties.

"Our special teams are in good shape, but there will still be competition," said Friedgen. "We had some guys perform well last year and we anticipate to be in at least that good of shape this year. Brooks (Barnard) is a weapon for us."

THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

John Swofford, ACC Commissioner

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 50th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 85 national championships, including 42 in men's competition and 43 in women's.

The conference had an immediate impact on the national college football scene in the fall of 1953 when the University of Maryland captured the first of what would eventually be five national football titles for the ACC. Clemson laid claim to the league's second national title in 1981 while Georgia Tech followed suit in 1990. Florida State pocketed national titles No. 4 and 5 in 1994 and 1999.

The nine schools that take to the field this fall under the ACC banner have produced 375 first or second team gridiron All-Americas and more than 50 first-team academic All-Americas. ACC teams have had 1,503 players selected in the annual professional football draft, including 112 first round selections. The league had 18 players drafted in the 2002 NFL draft, including two first rounders.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC over the years has proved itself to be among the elite in Division I-A football. The ACC is the nation's second-winningest bowl conference as the nine current league teams are a combined 88-79-5 (.526) in post-season play. Since 1990, the ACC is one of only five conferences to have each of its schools play in a bowl game.

The ACC had an all-time high six teams earn bowl berths in 2001 and a record seven of the league's nine teams posted winning records last season.

Georgia Tech and Florida State rank among the nation's winningest bowl teams. Among teams with 20-or-more bowl appearances, the Yellow Jackets are second with a 20-10 (.667) post-season record while the Seminoles are third at 18-10-2 (.633).

This past season the ACC had two consensus All Americans and over the past four years has produced 24 consensus All-Americans. Since 1997, the ACC has had more first round draft picks (29) in the annual NFL draft than any other conference except the 12-team Southeastern Conference. The ACC also set two attendance marks during the 2001 season, drawing [illegible] fans over seven home dates for a 46,648 per game mark. Maryland led the league in attendance increases, drawing 28 percent more fans in 2001.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971 when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Tech was admitted. The Atlanta school withdrew from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State.

2001 REVIEW NOTEBOOK

Terps Complete Season 10-2 and Ranked 10th

• The University of Maryland football team completed its 2001 season as one of the Cinderella stories of college football. The Terrapins, under first-year coach Ralph Friedgen, returned to the form of their glory days by winning the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, earning a spot in a Bowl Championship Series game, and finishing 10-2 (7-1 ACC).

• Friedgen — the consensus National Coach of the Year — and the Terrapins wrapped up the title with their season-ending 23-19 win at NC State. The win gave the Terps their first ACC title since 1985 and assured the school of its first ever bid to a BCS game.

• The Terrapins finished the season ranked 10th in the final ESPN/USA Taday poll and 11th in the final Associated Press poll. The Terps were a constant in the national rankings since early October and the spot in the final polls marked Maryland's highest season-ending ranking since 1984, when the Terps were No. 9 in the final coaches' poll (Maryland was 12th in the final AP poll that year). It also marks the seventh time in school history that a Terp football team finished the season in the top 10 of the national rankings.

• Maryland finished the season ranked 10th in the Bowl Championship Series rankings, its first appearance in the poll. The Terps' highest ranking in the BCS of 2001 was eighth, which came in the first release of the BCS ranking.

An *ACC*eptional Season

• Maryland's win over NC State on November 17 marked another chapter in a storybook season for the Terps. The come-from-behind victory ensured the Terrapins of their first conference title since 1985 and also put this year's team in the class of some of the finest in school history in terms of accomplishment.

• The win over the Wolfpack was Maryland's 10th of the season, marking the first time since 1976 that a Terp team hit the 10-win plateau.

• The Terrapins' seven Atlantic Coast Conference wins of 2001 were the most in school history. The seven wins matches the combined total of the last four Maryland teams and betters the mark of four other teams (1974, 1983, 1984, 1985) that won six ACC games in a season.

• In securing sole possession of the league title, Maryland became the first team other than Florida State to win the ACC outright since the Seminoles joined the conference in 1992 (the Seminoles have either owned or shared the crown every year from 1992-2000).

• The 2001 team is the fifth in school history to win 10 games or more and the first ever to win seven games at home, besting the 6-0 mark at Byrd Stadium achieved by the 1976 team.

• Maryland teams to have won 10 games or more are as follows:

Yeor	Rec.	Conf. Rec.	Ronk	Notes
1951	10-0	5-0	3rd	So. Conference champs; Beat #1 Tennessee in Sugar Bowl
1953	10-1	3-0	1st	First ACC champ; Lost to Oklahoma in Orange Bowl
1955	10-1	4-0	3rd	ACC champs; Lost to Nat'l. Champ Oklahoma in Orange Bowl
1976	11-1	6-0	8th	ACC champs; Lone loss came in the Cotton Bowl to Houston
2000	10-2	7-1	10th/11th	ACC champs; First-ever BCS bowl bid

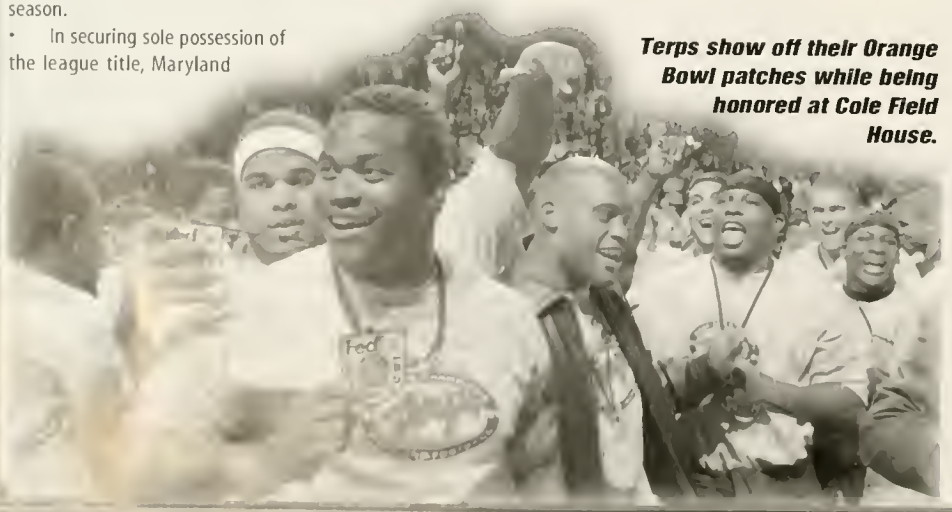
To the Victor...

• With the Terrapins catching the national eye with their play this season, numerous Terps were recognized for their efforts.

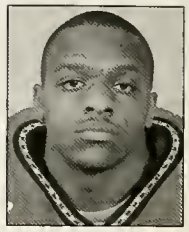
Ralph Friedgen

• Head coach Ralph Friedgen was the consensus National Coach of the Year. The ACC Coach of the Year has been recognized by every national award, with only the AFCA giving him a share of the award with national champion Miami's Larry Coker.

• Three Maryland players were dubbed finalists or semifinalists for national awards. E.J. Henderson was a finalist for the Butkus Award recognizing the nation's top linebacker; Brooks Barnard was a semifinalist for the Ray Guy Award which is given to the nation's top punter; and Bruce Perry was a finalist for the Doak Walker Award, which is awarded to the nation's top offensive back.



Terps show off their Orange Bowl patches while being honored at Cole Field House.



E.J. Henderson

• Henderson became just the sixth defensive player since 1974 to be named ACC Player of the Year, in addition to being named the conference's Defensive Player of the Year. The other five to earn the honor since '74: Maryland's Randy White (1974); UNC's Lawrence Taylor; Clemson's William Perry and Michael Perry; and FSU's Andre Wadsworth.

• Henderson's efforts in '01 helped earn him consensus All-American honors. Henderson became the first linebacker in Maryland history and the 11th player overall to earn enough acclaim to be named a consensus All-America selection.

• Perry became the first sophomore ever and, in fact, the first non-senior to earn the ACC's Offensive Player of the Year honor.

Seeing Orange

• On December 4, the committee of the FedEx Orange Bowl announced that Maryland would play in its January 2, 2002, bowl game. The trip was the Terrapins' first to a bowl game since the 1990 Independence Bowl and their first to the Orange Bowl since 1956. It marked the University of Maryland's third showing in the Orange.

• The Terrapins kept it close early in the Orange, trailing Florida only 14-10 early in the second quarter. But the Gators proved that — despite two losses — they were one of the elite programs in the country and used their offensive firepower to hand the Terps a 56-23 loss.

• The 2001 season marked the first time since the Terps went to the Cotton Bowl in 1977 that the team played in a New Year's bowl game. It also marked the seventh time in school history that the Terrapins played in a New Year's game (1948 Gator Bowl, Jan. 1; 1950 Gator Bowl, Jan. 2; 1952 Sugar Bowl, Jan. 2; 1954 Orange Bowl, Jan. 1; 1956 Orange Bowl, Jan. 2; 1977 Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1).

• The Terrapins are now 6-10-2 all-time in bowl games and 0-3 in the Orange Bowl. Both previous losses in the "OB" came at the hands of Oklahoma and featured the eventual national champion.

Busting Out of Their Shells

• Maryland started 2001 with the defense ahead of the offense and talk that Ralph Friedgen's first season as a head coach would see the offensive mastermind lead a team whose defense was the more dominating unit. As the season progressed, the defense continued to perform well, but the Maryland offense quietly shaped up as one of the most potent in the country and school history.

• The Terrapins scored 390 points in 2001, an average of 35.5 per game. The 390 points are more points than any team in school history, surpassing the mark of 353 set by the 1951 and 1982 teams. (Note: the 1951 squad scored 353 in just nine games while the 1982 team did it in 11). The 2001 Terrapins broke the record in the Clemson game when they put up 37 points versus the Tigers.

• Though the Orange Bowl loss was a disappointment, Maryland's offensive accomplishments were notable. On the season only Auburn (23) and Tennessee (34) posted as many points on the stingy Gator defense as Maryland did with both of those other games resulting in losses for UF.

- The Terps were one of only nine teams in Division I-A to average over 200 yards per game passing and rushing this season.
- On the season, Maryland's offensive balance was uncanny. The Terps averaged 220.7 yards on the ground and 219.0 through the air.
- Maryland's balanced offensive approach was never more apparent than in this year's FSU game. The Terps gained 214 yards on the ground and 214 through the air, ran 38 times and passed 37, and earned 10 first downs via the rush and 10 via pass.
- In their game against Duke, the Terps ran 90 plays and posted 697 total yards of offense. That yardage total is the second most in Terp history (802 vs. Virginia, 1975) and 11th most in ACC history.

Getting Defensive

- In 2001, the Terrapin defense established itself as a unit to be reckoned with. Though the personnel was not drastically different from the previous year, the results were as Gary Blackney's unit used a high-pressure, blitzing style that forced opponents to try to beat Maryland through the air and, in turn, caused them to make mistakes.
- The '01 Terrapin team ranked second nationally in interceptions (24) and caused the most turnovers (34) of any Maryland defense in the last 15 years.
- The Terrapins held five opponents under 100 yards rushing. By comparison, Maryland went all of 2000 without holding an opponent under the century mark on the ground.
- Florida State and Georgia Tech were the only teams in the regular season to throw for over 300 yards against the Terps (it happened five times a year ago).
- In 2000, opponents averaged 25.8 points per game against Maryland. In 2001, the Terps held opponents to 19.1 points per game (best in the ACC and 18th in Division I-A).
- Terp opponents averaged 2.6 yards per carry while being limited to an ACC-low 90.6 yards per game on the ground (that total also ranked ninth nationally).
- Maryland's defense ranked second in the nation in interceptions (24) and tied for seventh in turnovers forced (34). The 24 interceptions were the most by a Terp team since 1950 (also 24).
- The Terrapins led the Atlantic Coast Conference in sacks with 37.
- In 2000, the Maryland defense allowed an average of 440 yards per game. The "D" of 2001 yielded an average of 331.1 yards per contest.
- In the regular-season finale, an ACC-clinching win over NC State, the Terps held their foe to 38 yards rushing, limiting the Pack's Ray Robinson to 35 yards after he had posted three straight 100-yard efforts coming in.
- Maryland gave up just 341 yards to a high-powered Clemson offense while sacking the Tigers three times, posting nine TFLs, four interceptions and seven pass breakups. In that game, the defense held star QB Woodrow Dantzler to just 30 yards rushing, 153 yards passing and intercepted him three times, the most in any game during his career.
- Against a solid Troy State team, Maryland notched a season-high eight sacks and added 12 tackles for loss. The Trojans were held to 271 yards of offense and minus-one yard rushing.
- The Terps' best defensive performance against the rush also came against Troy State as it held the Trojans to minus one yard on the ground.
- Maryland forced six turnovers against Georgia Tech (including three George Godsey interceptions) and held the Jackets to 50 yards rushing, 72 yards less than their previous worst effort of the season and fewest since being held to 28 yards by North Carolina in 1997.
- In the Virginia game, Maryland gave up 345 total yards but held the Cavaliers to just 64 yards on the ground, over 70 yards below their season average coming in. The Terps were stingiest in the first half, giving up just one rushing yard to UVa.
- Against West Virginia, the Terps forced six turnovers (four interceptions and two fumbles). The four interceptions were the most by a Terrapin defense since they picked off the Mountaineers four times in a 33-0 rout in 1999.
- The 124 yards of offense that the Terps held Eastern Michigan to were the fewest by a Maryland opponent since 1980 when the Terps held Virginia to a sum of 90 yards. The EMU game marked just the sixth time since 1980 that the Terrapins held an opponent under 200 yards of offense. All but one of those games (Wake Forest in '96) came prior to 1983.

Perry's Breakout Season

- Sophomore Bruce Perry, a player who entered fall drills battling senior Marc Riley and freshman Jason Crawford for the starting job at tailback, was named one of three finalists for the Doak Walker Award and became the first underclassman in ACC history to be named the conference's Offensive Player of the Year.
- As the season progressed, the Philadelphia, Pa., native found different ways to help his team win games. Early on, Perry was the driving force behind the Maryland offense. As the season progressed, he became the focus of the opposing defense and he went from a force on the ground to a complete, all-around back.
- Perry opened the season with five straight 100-yard games and finished '01 ranked 19th in the nation and first in the ACC in rushing yards per game (112.9 ypg) after leading the nation for three weeks (from after the Wake Forest game to after the Virginia game).
- In games one through three this year, Perry actually eclipsed the 100-yard mark by the half.
- Perry finished the regular season with 1,242 yards on the season. That total ranks fourth in the Maryland single season annals and gives him the most yards ever by a Maryland sophomore.
- In leading the ACC in rushing, Perry became the first sophomore since UNC's Natrone Means and just the eighth sophomore in 49 years to do so.
- Perry's 276-yard effort against Wake Forest was the second-best single game total in Maryland history and the sixth-best in Atlantic Coast Conference lore.
- The 276 yards were also the most ever against the Demon Deacons, besting the 237-yard effort of South Carolina's George Rogers in 1978.

2001 ACC Player of the Year E.J. Henderson

Man in the Middle

- Junior All-American E.J. Henderson became a player to watch on the national scene for a defense that was nothing short of outstanding in 2001. The team leader in tackles in 2000 with 109 (despite missing a game-and-a-half due to injury), Henderson led the team in tackles in all but one regular season game in 2001 (Virginia).
- Henderson finished 2001 with an ACC-best 150 tackles and 28 tackles for loss. His six sacks also led the Terrapins and he will enter his senior year with 298 tackles for his career. (Henderson announced on January 10, 2002, that he would return for his final season in College Park.)
- With 28 TFLs, Henderson posted the best single season in modern Maryland history in 2001. His four tackles behind the line against Clemson broke the record of 24 set by the legendary Randy White in 1974, the first season the stat began being kept at Maryland.
- As he did a year ago, Henderson closed the 2001 season with a flurry. In his last six regular season games, he posted 90 tackles, a pace that would have given him 180 for the season had he kept it all year.
- The Aberdeen, Md., native saved his best for last, posting a career-high 20 tackles (13 solo) in the ACC-clinching season finale at NC State.
- Henderson has averaged 13.7 tackles per game (205 total) in his last 15 regular season games dating back to 2000.
- In his two-plus years at Maryland, Henderson has notched double-digits in tackles 16 times (nine times in '01).
- Dating back to 2000, Henderson has finished with double-digit tackle performances in 13 of the last 15 regular season games, and five times in 2001 he had 17 tackles or more.

The Word is Out

- E.J. Henderson began the 2001 season as he finished the last — with Maryland faithful feeling he was one of the top linebackers and best-kept secrets in the nation. With the season complete and the nation taking note of his play, it is safe to say that the secret no longer exists.
- Among his accolades in 2001 Henderson was named one of three finalists for the Butkus Award which recognizes the top linebacker in the nation.
- Henderson earned ACC Player of the Year and Defensive Player of the Year Awards, winning both by a landslide. He was just the sixth defensive player since 1974 to earn the league's player of the year nod.
- With virtually unanimous recognition, Henderson becomes the first linebacker and the 11th player overall in Maryland history to earn consensus All-America honors. Overall, he was named to the following All-America first teams: Walter Camp, Associated Press, The Sporting News, ABC Sports Online, CBS Sportsline.com, CNNSI.com, Football News and the Football Writers Association of America (FWAA).
- Henderson was also recognized (along with teammate Bruce Perry) as a semifinalist for national player of the year by the Football News.

New-Look Terps

- The Terrapins entered 2001 knowing that they would [illegible] new Inc[illegible] with a different helmet and uniforms, a new [illegible] new tailback (to replace all time [illegible]dan). What they couldn't have [illegible] 2001's team would be from

- With its 10-2 season and ACC championship, Maryland earned its first trip to a bowl since 1990, and did so in grand fashion, earning a spot in a BCS game.
- The Terrapins' seven ACC wins in 2001 were one more than their total in the previous three years combined.
- With Maryland's win in the season finale at NC State, it clinched its most ACC wins (seven) ever, besting the six wins by the 1985 squad.
- The Terrapins' win over Georgia Tech was their first over a ranked opponent in 34 games. The last time Maryland had beaten a ranked foe was in 1990, when it beat then No. 8 Virginia to earn a berth in the Independence Bowl, the team's last bowl appearance before this year.
- The Terps won multiple road games in the conference for just the third time since 1987. In winning three-of-four games on the road, Maryland matched the road win total of the 1985 team, the last to win three.

King of the Hill

- Though his numbers for the season were not Heisman material, there is no questioning that senior Shaun Hill was the leader of the Terrapin offense and one of the top performers in the ACC.
- For his efforts, Hill earned second team All-ACC status, falling two votes shy of first teamer Woodrow Dantzler. Hill was also recognized on a larger scale as he was the third-leading vote-getter in balloting for ACC Player of the Year.
- The Parsons, Kan., native was a key component in an offense that helped lead the way to a 10-2 mark. With Hill under center, the Terps committed just 15 turnovers (two others occurred after Hill left the game and one on a kick-off), one of the many reasons Hill earned team MVP honors.
- If there has been a trademark that Hill established in 2001, it was that he was cool under fire. In two of the Terrapins' biggest wins of the season (at Georgia Tech and at NC State), Hill led last-minute, fourth quarter drives that ultimately won the game or sent it to overtime.
- Against the Wolfpack, the Terps were required to pass more than they would have preferred and Hill responded. Hill finished 27-of-41 for 296 yards with two TDs and one interception. On the game winning drive, he was 6-of-8 (with one of the misses being a drop) for 59 yards and the game-winning touchdown to Guilian Gary.
- Hill did not have his best game against Georgia Tech (20-of-39, 210 yds., 2 int.), but he was able to move the Terrapin offense when it mattered most. With 1:18 left in regulation, he completed 4-of-6 passes for 51 yards to move Maryland into range for Nick Novak's game-tying 46-yard field goal as time expired.
- Hill was the key component of one of the best offensive displays in team history against Duke. In that performance, he became just the third quarterback in ACC history to gain over 300 yards passing and 100 yards rushing in the same game. The first was FSU's Charlie Ward (395 pass/111 rush against Maryland in 1992) and the second was Clemson's Woodrow Dantzler in 2001 against NC State (333 pass/184 rush).
- In 15 games as a Maryland starter (dating back to 2000), Hill posted a record of 11-4 (including the Orange Bowl) and in one of his non-starts, he mastered the best comeback of the last two years when the Terps erased a 21-6 halftime deficit in 2000's overtime win against NC State.
- On the season, Hill accounted for 20 touchdowns (13 pass, seven rush) while turning the ball over just nine times (all interceptions).

Terps 23

Sept. 1, 2001 • Noon
Byrd Stadium
College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Maryland coach Ralph Friedgen opened his head coaching career in grand fashion, beating conference opponent North Carolina, 23-7, at Byrd Stadium.

With the win, Friedgen became the first Maryland head coach since Tom Nugent in 1959 to win his first-ever game as a Terp. In addition, Friedgen became the first Terrapin coach ever to win his ACC opener in his first year.

Shaun Hill threw two TD passes to complement a stellar performance by the Maryland defense, and the Terrapins rolled to a 23-7 victory.

Maryland (1-0, 1-0 ACC) scored 23 straight points after Parker's run stunned Friedgen and the crowd of 44,080.

UNC (0-2, 0-1) remained winless under first-year coach John Bunting. Darian Durant replaced senior QB Ronald Curry for the second straight game, but unlike last week against Oklahoma, the redshirt freshman failed to generate any offense.

Curry went 6-for-12 for 61 yards and an interception. Durant, who entered in the third quarter, finished 10-for-14 for 97 yards and two interceptions.

The Terrapins kept the Tar Heels in their own end of the field for much of the game, thanks in part to punter Brooks Barnard, who averaged 50.4 yards on eight kicks and had seven of his eight punts travel over 50 yards.

Parker (25 yards on 12 carries after his initial run) was outdone by Maryland's Bruce Perry, who gained 116 yards on 21 attempts. Maryland pulled away with two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. After Perry ran for 12 yards on a 3rd-and-5 from the North Carolina 19, Hill hit Scooter Monroe for a five-yard score.

LB Mike Whaley then intercepted Durant, setting up a one-yard run by Marc Riley with 6:35 left and launching a celebration in the stadium that was a long time coming.

Stung by Parker's early run, Maryland's defense bounced back on North Carolina's next possession by forcing the Tar Heels to punt from their own one. A 10-yard return by Guilian Gary gave the Terrapins the ball at the North Carolina 32, setting up Hill's TD pass to Williams.

Sept. 8, 2001 • 6 p.m.
Byrd Stadium
College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Maryland continued its winning ways at the start of 2001 as it manhandled Eastern Michigan of the Mid-American Conference, 50-3, at Byrd Stadium.

Bruce Perry ran for 133 yards and three touchdowns as Maryland recorded its most lopsided victory since a 52-0 rout of Wake Forest in 1996.

The defense limited Eastern Michigan to just 124 yards in offense - fewest by a Maryland opponent since 1980 - in helping Friedgen became the first coach since Jim Tatum in 1947 to win his first two games at Maryland.

EMU produced only 69 yards and five first downs in falling behind 41-0 after three quarters.

Perry scored on runs of eight, 24 and 31 yards. The sophomore averaged 8.3 yards per carry before being pulled early in the third quarter.

Showing no signs of a letdown after last week's emotional 23-7 rout of ACC rival North Carolina, Maryland scored on its first two possessions to take control.

First, the Terrapins moved 62 yards in 11 plays, taking a 6-0 lead on Perry's first career score. Maryland then forced a punt and proceeded to embark on another 62-yard march. Perry ran for 47 yards on four carries before giving way to Marc Riley, who scored from the one.

The Eagles' first turnover, an interception by Tony Okanlawon, set up a 19-yard touchdown pass from Hill to Guilian Gary for a 19-0 lead in the second quarter. Hill salvaged the drive with a 30-yard completion to Daryl Whitmer on a third-and-25.

Perry's second touchdown, with 3:37 left in the half, capped a 52-yard drive in which Hill completed two passes to Gary totaling 24 yards. Hill then completed two passes for 26 yards before Perry raced around right end to make it 34-0 early in the third quarter.

GAME 3

Terps 27

Wake Forest 20

Sept. 22, 2001 • 3:30 p.m.
Groves Stadium
Winston-Salem, N.C.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. - Bruce Perry rushed for a career-high 276 yards, scoring on runs of 50 and 80 yards, as Maryland beat Wake Forest, 27-20.

The game featured the two top rushers in the Atlantic Coast Conference in Perry and Wake's Tarence Williams, who came into the game averaging 137 yards. Williams finished with 100 yards -- 70 coming in the second half -- but could never find the kind of holes that allowed Perry to rumble frequently into the secondary.

Perry finished with the second-highest rushing total in school history and the seventh-highest in ACC history.

Perry opened with an 80-yard touchdown run. He added a 50-yard score with 8:38 to play in the game that gave the Terps (3-0, 2-0 ACC) a 27-13 edge.

The Deacons (2-1, 0-1) answered with a 42-yard TD pass from James MacPherson to Jason Anderson that pulled them to 27-20 with 6:54 to play. The Deacons had two late chances to tie the game.

The first drive ended with an incompletion, while a Tony Jackson interception in the end zone with 39 seconds to play stopped the second.

Maryland had 519 yards of offense and got 222 passing yards from quarterback Shaun Hill.

The Terps led 10-3 at halftime, but made several mistakes that kept Wake Forest close. The Terps had a 13-yard scoring pass from Hill to Daryl Whitmer called back because of a holding penalty in the second quarter. On its next drive, Maryland moved the ball 72 yards on 12 plays, but turned the ball over when safety Adrian Duncan intercepted a pass in the end zone just before halftime.

College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Bruce Perry ran for 153 yards and a touchdown Saturday as the Terrapins won their fourth straight, 32-20, over error-prone West Virginia.

The Terrapins are soaring to new heights under Ralph Friedgen, who joins H.C. "Curley" Byrd as the only two coaches to begin their first season at Maryland with four straight wins.

It was the fourth straight 100-yard game for Perry to start the season, who carried 31 times and caught two passes for 28 yards against a defense geared to stop him.

Shaun Hill threw for a touchdown and ran for another as Maryland improved to 4-0 for the second time since 1978. The 1995 team started 4-0 but faded to a 6-5 finish and did not receive a bowl bid.

Avon Cobourne ran for 128 yards and Shawn Terry returned a kickoff 100 yards for West Virginia (2-2). But Brad Lewis threw four interceptions and the Mountaineers lost two fumbles.

The Mountaineers' fifth turnover enabled the Terrapins to take a 25-13 lead with 4:41 seconds left in the third quarter. After Randall Jones returned an interception 30 yards, Guilian Gary caught a pass from Hill on a slant pattern and sprinted the rest of the way for a 29-yard score.

Maryland later got some breathing room with an 81-yard drive capped by Hill's 1-yard sneak with 12:11 left. Perry accounted for 47 yards, including 18 on a pass from Hill.

Maryland took advantage of two turnovers to go up 19-13 at halftime. WVU's first possession ended with an interception in the end zone by Tony Jackson, and late in the half Mike Whaley scooped up a Lewis fumble and ran 52 yards for a touchdown.

Lewis went 31-for-52 for 279 yards and a touchdown, but his five turnovers were too much for WVU to overcome.

College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Off to their best start in 23 years, the Maryland Terrapins found themselves in a rather unaccustomed spot after playing UVa -- alone atop the ACC.

Shaun Hill threw for two touchdown passes and Bruce Perry ran for 143 yards and a score as No. 25 Maryland remained unbeaten by defeating Virginia, 41-21.

The Terrapins let a 24-7 halftime lead dwindle to three points, then pulled away in the fourth quarter to snap a nine-game losing streak against the Cavaliers and emerge as the lone undefeated team in the ACC through October 6.

Billy McMullen had 11 catches for 175 yards and a TD for UVa. Backup QB Matt Schaub was 20-for-33 for 271 yards and a TD, but he threw a costly fourth-quarter interception.

After Virginia closed to 24-21 late in the third quarter, Hill capped an 80-yard drive with a five-yard touchdown pass to Jafar Williams with 13:26 left. Maryland's Tony Okanlawon then returned an interception 34 yards to the Virginia 28, setting up a six-yard touchdown run by Perry.

That assured Maryland its first win over Virginia since 1991 and its first 5-0 start since 1978. Hill went 22-for-35 for 237 yards and ran for a score. Perry had a career-high eight catches for 51 yards.

The Terrapins scored two touchdowns in a 73-second span to go up by 17 points at halftime. After Hill threw a 53-yard touchdown pass to Gary, Maryland's Curtis Williams blocked a punt and Leroy Ambush recovered the ball in the end zone.

Held to four yards on five carries over the first 15 minutes, Perry took a pitch and ran 45 yards on the first play of the second quarter to set up a four-yard touchdown run by Hill.

Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA — When Ralph Friedgen and George O'Leary are sitting in their rocking chairs by the lake, boy, will they have a story to tell about the first time they squared off as head coaches.

Nick Novak kicked a 26-yard field goal in overtime and Maryland (No. 22 AP/ No. 20 ESPN/USA Today) remained unbeaten when Joe Burns fumbled for 15th-ranked Georgia Tech, giving Friedgen a 20-17 victory over his former school. Novak, a redshirt freshman, forced the extra session with a career-long 46-yard field goal on the final play of regulation and the Terps' win was their first over a ranked opponent since 1990, a span of 33 games.

Tech won the coin toss and put Maryland on offense first. The Terps picked up a first down before settling for Novak's short field goal. The ball then went to the Yellow Jackets and on 2nd-and-7, Burns took a handoff on a simple run up the middle but appeared to hit one of his own lineman as he tried to cut. The ball popped loose, safety Randall Jones fell on it for the Terrapins and the game ended, Maryland victorious.

The drive to tie the game in the fourth started when the Terps got the ball at their own 20 and drove to the Tech 46, where Shaun Hill hooked up with freshman Rich Parson on a 17-yard completion on 3rd down. Maryland then spiked the ball and Novak booted the long field goal as time ran out.

Maryland's first score came early when Burns fumbled while taking a handoff from Godsey and E.J. Henderson scooped it up at the 36 and ran the other way for a TD less than three minutes into the game.

The Terrapins made it 14-0 in the second after another Jackets turnover launched an eight-play, 68-yard drive that ended with Jafar Williams scoring on an 11-yard reverse.

Oct. 20, 2001 • 1 p.m.

College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Unbeaten Maryland has opened 2001 with a seven-game winning streak and the confidence generated by a 59-17 rout of Duke.

With scouts from the Sugar Bowl in attendance, the No. 12 Terrapins made 34 first downs, amassed 697 yards in total offense and punted only once — on the final play of the game.

Shaun Hill passed for 323 yards, ran for 105 and led the Terrapins to touchdowns on their first six possessions as Maryland built a 42-10 halftime lead.

The 59 points are Maryland's second-most in an ACC game behind only a 62-point effort against Virginia in 1975. Five different players scored TDs, led by Hill, who ran for two and threw for another. Hill completed 26-of-32 passes before being pulled late in the third quarter with Maryland up 52-10.

The Terrapins' 7-0 start is the team's best since 1978, and the seven wins its most since 1985, the last time the Terps won an ACC title.

Duke committed three turnovers in the first half, each of which was converted by Maryland into a touchdown.

After Duke went three-and-out on its first series, the Terps moved 58 yards on five runs to take a 7-0 lead. Rich Parson had a 31-yard run, Bruce Perry ran three times for 25 yards, and Hill capped the drive with a two-yard run over left tackle.

Hill ran the same play on Maryland's second possession, this time running for 57 yards to the Duke 22. Three plays later, Perry scored from the 12. Tony Jackson then intercepted Bryant's pass, setting up a 14-yard touchdown run by James Lynch for a 21-0 lead

Oct. 27, 2001 • 3:30 p.m.

Tallahassee, Fla.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Chris Rix came back from an early injury and threw five touchdown passes to lead Florida State (No. 19 ESPN/USA Today, No. 18 AP) to a 52-31 victory that ended Maryland's perfect season and put the Seminoles right back in the middle of the ACC title hunt.

Rix threw two TD passes to Talman Gardner late in the second quarter to help the Seminoles claim a 21-17 halftime lead and then threw three more TD passes in the fourth quarter.

Maryland (No. 10 AP/No. 12 ESPN/USA Today) tied it at 31 with 1:53 left in the third quarter on quarterback Shaun Hill's one-yard sneak, but the Terps fell apart in the game's final quarter.

Rix teamed with Gardner, who finished with six catches for 140 yards and three scores, Javon Walker and Atrews Bell for the decisive fourth-quarter touchdowns. Florida State scored its points in bunches, getting 21 second-quarter points in less than three minutes and putting up 21 more in just over 5 minutes in the final period.

Maryland, plagued later in the game with four turnovers, took its early lead on a 65-yard touchdown run by 261-pound fullback James Lynch and a one-yard run by Marc Riley.

But then Rix started throwing darts to his wideouts, combining twice for touchdowns with Gardner on plays covering 16 and 9 yards around Michael Boulware's 23-yard interception return that catapulted the Seminoles into a 21-14 advantage in a span of just 2 minutes and 57 seconds.

Maryland's Bruce Perry, the ACC's leading rusher, picked up 67 yards and went over 1,000 (1,016) on the season.

TSU 17

Nov. 3, 2001 • 1 p.m.
Byrd Stadium
College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Shaun Hill threw for 228 yards and two TDs as Maryland cruised to a 47-14 victory over Troy State.

The victory was a complete one. The Terps (8-1) scored on six of eight possessions in building a 34-0 halftime lead. Maryland's defense limited Troy State to two first downs and 26 yards in the decisive first half.

TSU came into the game with a three-game win streak that included a 21-9 upset of Mississippi State, but it was no match for Maryland, which last won eight games in 1985.

The Terrapins (No. 15 AP/No. 16 ESPN/USA Today) took a 7-0 lead with less than five minutes elapsed. Marc Riley burst through a hole at right tackle on 3rd-and-1 and ran for a 69-yard TD, his eighth score of the year.

Later in the quarter, Scooter Monroe made an over-the-shoulder catch of a perfectly thrown Hill spiral for a 42-yard gain, setting up the first of Nick Novak's four field goals.

The Trojans got their initial first down on the ensuing possession, but E.J. Henderson subsequently blocked a punt to give the Terrapins the ball at the Troy State 30. Six plays later, Bruce Perry took a screen pass 17 yards to make it 17-0.

After a Trojan punt, Perry capped a 46-yard drive with a 10-yard run, putting Maryland up 24-0. It was Perry's 11th touchdown, tied for eighth on the school's single-season list.

Minutes later, Hill ended a 65-yard drive with a 15-yard TD pass to Daryl Whitmer. Troy State then punted again, leaving enough time for Novak to kick a 50-yard field goal on the final play of the half.

It was 44-0 in the third quarter before Demontray Carter returned a kickoff 79 yards, which led to 17-yard touchdown pass from Brock Nutter to Heyward Skipper. By that time, Maryland was already looking forward to Clemson.

GAME 10

Terps 37

Clemson 20

Nov. 10, 2001 • 7 p.m.
Byrd Stadium
College Park, Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Maryland's rare victory over Clemson was followed by an even more unusual occurrence: the goal posts being torn down at Byrd Stadium.

Shaun Hill passed for 189 yards and two TDs as Maryland (No. 13 AP/No. 11 ESPN/USA Today) ended an eight-game skid against Clemson and gained sole possession of first place in the ACC with a 37-20 victory.

Adding another highlight to a remarkable turnaround season, the Terrapins (9-1, 6-1) thrilled their first sellout crowd since 1995 by taking a 17-6 halftime lead and cruising behind a defense that had four second-half interceptions.

Maryland led 34-6 in the fourth quarter before Clemson managed to make the final score appear deceptively close. When the game ended, thousands stormed the field to celebrate.

Playing with the same confidence and poise they've showed all season, the Terps scored on their first possession and never let up in delighting their largest home crowd (52,462) since 1983. Maryland finished 7-0 at home, a school record, and set the school record for points (367) in a season.

After throwing for 177 yards in the decisive first half, Hill did most of his work on the ground after halftime, finishing with 54 yards on 12 carries.

Clemson quarterback Woody Dantzler left early in the fourth after going 11-for-22 for 153 yards and a career-high three interceptions. He had only 30 yards rushing, 62 below his average.

Wasting no time in proving that big-game jitters would not be a factor, the Terps moved 80 yards after the opening kickoff. Hill completed two third-down passes and Clemson was called for two penalties before Riley bulled in from the one.

Terps 23

NC State 19

Nov. 17, 2001 • 7:45 p.m.
Carter-Finley Stadium
Raleigh, N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. - The play that clinched Maryland's first outright ACC championship in 16 years hadn't been used since fall camp. That's the same time first-year coach Ralph Friedgen began building a winning attitude among a group of players who refused to quit again against NC State.

The Fridge and his Terps rallied late to slam the door on FSU's nine-year run as ACC champions, becoming one of the more unlikely champs in ACC lore with a 23-19 win over NC State.

Shaun Hill's eight-yard scoring pass to Guilian Gary with 41 seconds left capped a dream regular season for Friedgen and Maryland's long-suffering fans.

NC State (6-4, 4-4) saw its three-game winning streak come to a close in dramatic fashion on its home turf. The Wolfpack beat Florida State the week before and were gunning for consecutive wins over top 10 teams for the first time in school history.

Friedgen pumped his fist in the air as the clock hit zero, becoming the first coach to win the ACC crown in his initial season in the league, going 7-1. He also led the Terrapins (No. 10 AP/No. 9 ESPN/USA Today) to their first 10-win season since 1976 and fifth in school history.

NC State took a 19-16 lead with 3:59 left as Philip Rivers completed 8 of 9 passes on an 80-yard drive. Meanwhile, Maryland looked like it lost a chance to win the ACC title outright when NC State's Lamont Reid ran down Rich Parson from behind on a long pass play, forcing a fumble at the Wolfpack 1 with 2:51 left.

After the turnover, the Terrapins held, and got the ball back with 2:18 remaining.

Hill completed a 4th-and-5 play early in the drive to keep the 61-yard march alive. He then completed two more passes before the game-winner to Gary in the front right of the end zone.

Maryland took its first lead with 8:51 left in the third when Hill led the Terps on a 15-play drive, capped by a five yard pass to Gary. Adam [illegible]'s fourth field goal five min[illegible] gave the Wolfpack the lead [illegible] the tight defensive struggle [illegible] set up the final drama over the next three minutes.

GAME 12

56 Florida

Terps 23

Jan. 2, 2002 • 8 p.m.
Pro Player Stadium
Miami, Fla.

MIAMI - Banished to the bench for the first 24 minutes of the Orange Bowl, Rex Grossman led Florida to touchdowns on his first six drives and the No. 5 Gators set record after record in a 56-23 defeat of No. 6 Maryland.

Grossman threw for 248 yards and four touchdowns. Another so-called backup, third receiver Taylor Jacobs, caught 10 passes for 170 yards, both Orange Bowl records.

The Gators showed they might, indeed, have the most talent in the nation, even though they wouldn't play for the national title in the Rose Bowl.

Jacobs also caught two touchdown passes - one from Brock Berlin, one from Grossman - as the Gators (10-2) rolled to a rout, hardly distracted by Spurrier's decision to bench Grossman. Berlin played about the way an untested sophomore would be expected to. His six drives to open the game produced two touchdowns and two interceptions, a bunch of nice passes and a handful of dreadful ones, a slim 14-10 lead despite a prolific 224 yards in total offense.

While Berlin played, Grossman stood on the sideline with his helmet on, ready to go. But indeed, his time came, and his first six drives were much more impressive than Berlin's. The Heisman Trophy runner-up entered to big cheers with 6:03 left in the second quarter and showed exactly how he earned the starting position and kept it through all 11 regular-season games.

Gaffney finished with seven catches for 118 yards, but Jacobs was the best receiver on this night, and he was selected the game's MVP.

The teams combined for 79 points, breaking the combined record of 69 set by Texas and Georgia in 1949. Their 1,019 total yards broke the record of 903 set by Florida State and Notre Dame in 1996.

Ranked #14

The Tatum system was clicking by the third season under the new coach. Maryland scored more points than in any previous season in its history – 266 to its opponents' 81. Jim Tatum and a collection of new players lifted Maryland to its first ranking in the AP poll. Newcomers such as Ed Modzelewski, Bob Ward, Bob Shemonski and junior All-America tackle Ray Krouse were instrumental in leading the Terrapins to eight decisive regular season victories, losing only to No. 13 Michigan State, 14-7. The Terps plowed through the opposition, and after beating No. 15 Boston U. by a 14-13 count, earned the No. 15 poll position themselves. Maryland ended the regular season with a 13-0 shutout at Miami. The Terps earned their first bowl victory with a 20-7 rout of Missouri in the Gator Bowl.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE CO-CHAMPIONS

Maryland completed its only undefeated season in history and clobbered top-ranked and heavily favored Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl to lay its own claim to a national crown. Led by All-American tackles Bob Ward and Ray Krouse, brothers Ed and Dick Modzelewski, and QB Jack Scarbath, Maryland accepted a Sugar Bowl invitation against the recommendation of Southern Conference presidents who sought for all league institutions to boycott the bowls. The Terps were decided underdogs against No. 1 Tennessee, but Ed "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski's 153 rushing yards and a 28-13 victory prompted Tennessee coach Bob Neyland to state, "We were soundly beaten by a superior team."

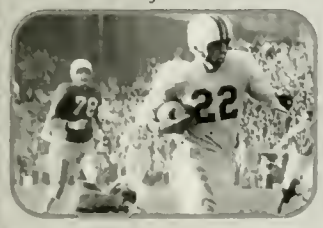
Ranked #13

The amazing win streak continued in 1952, but it ended abruptly and Maryland was kept out of a bowl game despite its No. 13 final ranking. The Terps had amassed 19 straight wins and 22 straight games without a defeat before falling 21-14 at Mississippi on Nov. 15. The end came in the eighth game of a schedule that was revised heavily after Southern Conference teams refused to play Maryland because the Terps had chosen to play in the previous season's Sugar Bowl. Ole Miss scored a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns to upend the Terps, and Maryland fell 27-7 to Alabama the following week to quell any hopes of a bowl bid. Bernie Faloney and Jack Scarbath both were All-Americans and Scarbath, a preseason favorite to win the Heisman Trophy, finished second in the balloting.



Chet Hanulak raced past the Boston U. defenders far a 15-yard TD an Nov. 1.

National Champions

College Park is home to the nation's No. 1 football team. The Maryland grid team swept past its 10 regular season opponents with a perfect record and, in so doing, scored a total of 298 points while limiting its opposition to a record 31. Coach Jim Tatum was named the national coach of the year and many Old Line players were selected to various all-star teams. Operating out of the split T, Maryland ranked sixth in the nation in total offense with a 359.5-yard average. On defense, the team yielded only 193.2 yards per game and led the country in rushing (83.9) and scoring defense (3.1). During the '53 campaign, the Terps made up for two defeats handed them in 1952 by decisively beating Mississippi and Alabama. After the Terps downed Miami 30-0, Hurricanes coach Andy Gustafson summed up the nation's top team by saying, "Maryland has one of the greatest teams I've ever seen." Maryland began the season with a No. 9 preseason ranking by the Associated Press and took over the top spot in the polls on the final week of the regular season after the No. 2 Terps waxed the No. 11 Crimson Tide, 21-0. The top-ranked and undefeated Terps tied No. 18 Duke for the inaugural ACC title, but fell to 10-1 after losing the Orange Bowl to Oklahoma, 7-0.

Entering the season ranked No. 3 in the nation, the Terps began the 1954 campaign in convincing style, shutting out Kentucky 24-0 in their season opener. But the Terps stumbled in their next game, losing a close 12-7 decision to fourth-ranked UCLA. That dropped Maryland to No. 13 in the polls heading into its ACC matchup vs. Wake Forest. A 13-13 tie with the Demon Deacons sent the Terps tumbling out of the national rankings for the first time since 1950. Maryland rebounded to shut out North Carolina 33-0 before dropping a 9-7 road decision to Miami. The Terps went on to win their final five games by a combined score of 200-33, including a 74-13 Thanksgiving Day shellacking of Missouri. Maryland finished the season with a No. 8 national ranking.

Jerry Claiborne's second season as Maryland coach lifted the Terps to a 5-1 mark in the ACC, and their first national ranking in 12 seasons. The Terps were 5-3 after a 42-22 loss to No. 6 Penn State, but three decisive wins over Virginia, Clemson and Tulane earned Maryland a bid to its first bowl game since the 1956 Orange Bowl. Maryland dominated Georgia in the Peach Bowl, outgaining the Bulldogs 461 to 284 on offense and driving inside the Georgia 20-yard line seven times. Four turnovers proved costly, however, and after a 10-10 tie at intermission, all Maryland could muster were a pair of fourth-quarter field goals by Steve Mike-Mayer. Defensive tackle Randy White earned the first of his two All-America awards.

The powerful Terrapins swept through the regular season undefeated and became only the second team in ACC history to win three consecutive league titles outright. Coach Jerry Claiborne's club ran its conference victory string to a record 20 straight. The Terps appeared in a bowl for the fourth straight year, losing to Southwest Conference champion Houston, 30-21, in the Cotton Bowl. Maryland tackle Joe Campbell was a consensus All-American. Maryland's No. 8 ranking in the final AP poll was the first Top 10 finish by an ACC team since 1960.

Junior quarterback Boomer Esiason led the Terrapins and first-year head coach Bobby Ross to a seven-game midseason win streak which earned Maryland its first national ranking in two seasons. After early season losses at No. 7 Penn State and No. 17 West Virginia, Maryland scored points at will while rolling through its ACC schedule. The Terrapins' 31-point average was second only to its undefeated season of 1951, and Ross was named the national coach of the year by the Washington Touchdown Club. A 31-24 win at No. 10 North Carolina put Maryland back in the rankings, and another shootout with Clemson would determine the ACC champion. No. 16 Maryland was invited to the inaugural Aloha Bowl in Honolulu where it surrendered a last-second touchdown to No. 9 Washington, losing 21-20.

The third-ranked Terps came into the Orange Bowl riding a 15-game winning streak, only to have it snapped by an Oklahoma team that extended its winning streak to 30 games with its 20-6 win. The Terps, who led 6-0 at halftime, were stunned when the Sooners went into their famous "fast break offense" and reeled off two third quarter touchdowns to earn the national championship. Ed Vereb, who scored the Terps' lone touchdown, finished with 108 rushing yards. Maryland was hurt by five turnovers.

Maryland came away from its first bowl game in 18 years a bitterly disappointed team. The Terrapins dominated Georgia in all phases, but the game was tied 10-10 at the half thanks to a couple of big plays by the Bulldogs. In the third quarter, a costly Terp fumble led to Georgia's go-ahead touchdown. Seven times the Terrapins were inside the Georgia 20-yard line, coming away with only nine points. The Terps' lone touchdown came via Walter White's 68-yard touchdown reception.

The Maryland defense, led by All-ACC defensive tackle Randy White, shut out Tennessee for nearly four quarters but lost the game when the Volunteers' quarterback, Randy Wallace, found Larry Seivers for an 11-yard touchdown pass with 2:08 to play. The Terps were punting from their own 13 when a bad snap from the center was recovered by the Volunteers on the Maryland seven-yard line. Maryland had a chance to win the game but an apparent 20-yard touchdown pass was ruled out of bounds.

The ACC champion Terrapins headed into the 1975 Gator Bowl as a seven-point underdog to the Florida Gators. However, this did not deter the Terps, who were coming off their best season (8-2-1) in 20 years. Maryland shut out the Gators, 13-0, in front of a large pro-Florida crowd in a steady downpour. The Maryland defense held the SEC's total offense leader scoreless and intercepted two Florida passes which led to the first 10 Maryland points. This was the first Terp win over an SEC team since 1955.

TERPS IN THE HALL FO FAME

Bob WARD

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1980)

Bob Ward weighed all of 165 pounds throughout his four-year playing career at Maryland and, even in the early 1950s, that was no size for a lineman. Especially a lineman who was a first team All-America middle guard on defense as a junior in 1950 and a first team offensive guard as a senior in 1951.

The forte of the Maryland teams of the early 1950s was consistency—a winning consistency. During Ward's four years, the team was a combined 32-7-1, winning two bowl games (1949 Gator over Missouri, 1951 Sugar over Tennessee to complete a perfect 10-0 season).

The awards and honors Ward earned as a Maryland player belie physical stature, but speak volumes about the man. He was the MVP of the 1949 Gator Bowl, Maryland's first bowl victory. He was the only player ever to earn All-America honors as both an offensive and defensive position player. He earned Southern Conference Player of the Year honors as a senior and was chosen Lineman of the Year by the Washington Touchdown Club and the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association in 1951.

Bob Ward was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1980.

Jack SCARBATH

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1983)

Jack Scarbath is an integral part of Maryland football history. In his first start, the All-America quarterback scored the first touchdown in the new Byrd Stadium, a 21-yard run in the first game of the 1950 season.

Scarbath was the quarterback for head coach Jim Tatum's new split T offense for three seasons (1950-52). Scarbath led the Terps to a 24-4-1 record, including a perfect 10-0 season and a 28-13 upset of national champion Tennessee in the 1951 Sugar Bowl. Scarbath called the signals during Maryland's 22-game unbeaten streak over the course of the 1950, '51 and '52 seasons.

During his stellar career, Scarbath rewrote the Terrapin record book, completing 125 of 260 passes for 2,287 yards, an average of 18.3 yards per completion. In 1951, AP and UPI polls named him honorable mention All-American. In 1952, he was honored with first team All-America citations from AP, UPI, International News Service, Colliers, and Look. He finished runner-up to Oklahoma's Billy Vessels in the 1952 Heisman Trophy balloting.

A first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, Scarbath went on to play with the Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1983.

Jim TATUM

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1984)

In a brief time as a college football head coach -- one season at North Carolina (1942, 5-2-2), one at Oklahoma (1946, 8-3, Gator Bowl victory over North Carolina State) and nine years at Maryland (1947-55, 73-15-4, 2-2-1 in bowl games) -- Jim Tatum had become a coaching legend.

Tatum's Maryland teams from 1950-55 were 51-8-2, with a perfect 10-0 record and Sugar Bowl victory in 1951. The squad posted 10-0 regular season records in 1953 and 1955 before both teams were upset by Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. Tatum's 1953 team was declared national champion, and Tatum was named national Coach of the Year.

During his career at Maryland, Tatum led the Terps to 19 consecutive wins and an unbeaten streak of 22 games (21-0-1) during the 1950, '51 and '52 campaigns. In the 1952 Sugar Bowl, the Terrapins defeated top-ranked Tennessee 23-13.

Tatum left Maryland following the 1955 season to return to his alma mater, North Carolina, in 1956. He coached the Tar Heels for three more seasons.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1984.

Stan JONES

Pro Football Hall of Fame (1991)
National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (2000)

Stan Jones was the starting right tackle on the Terp defense that allowed only 31 points during 10 regular season games in 1953. With Jones leading the way, Maryland recorded six shutouts and allowed only one team, Georgia, to score more than six points.

It all added up to a 10-0 regular season for the Terps, who captured the national championship despite an upset loss to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Jones earned consensus All-America honors in 1953 and was chosen "Outstanding College Lineman of 1953" by the College Football Coaching Board. A fifth-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears, Jones went on to have a lengthy pro career. He spent a majority of his career with the Bears (1954-65) before finishing at Washington (1966).

"I was very prepared for the NFL when I left Maryland," Jones said. "From my coaches who taught me football to my professors who taught me anatomy, physiology and weight training, I received a great education. I couldn't have picked a better place to go."

Jones was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1991 and selected for the College Football Hall of Fame in 2000.

TERPS IN THE HALL OF FAME

Dick MODZELEWSKI

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1993)

Through three All-America years at Maryland and 14 All-Pro years in the National Football League, Dick Modzelewski was always "Little Mo." At 6-0, 235 pounds during his playing days at Maryland, he was one of the bigger collegiate linemen during the early 1950s. He was the second Mo at Maryland, following his older brother Ed, "Big Mo."

Dick Modzelewski played three years as defensive tackle for the Terps on the great teams which were 24-4-1. He became Maryland's first winner of a major national honor when he received the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman in 1952. Through his career at Maryland, the Terps fashioned a 22-game unbeaten streak.

At the end of his senior season, Modzelewski was named to every All-America team and was awarded the Outland Trophy. He was a second-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins. He spent 14 seasons in the NFL, with the Redskins, the Pittsburgh Steelers, the New York Giants and Cleveland Browns. Modzelewski was an All-Pro and on NFL championship teams with both the Giants (1956) and the Browns (1964).

Dick Modzelewski was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1993.

Randy WHITE

Pro Football Hall of Fame (1994)
National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1994)

Randy White changed the look of football's defensive lines. At Maryland, and later in an All-Pro National Football League career with the Dallas Cowboys, he was regarded as the quickest defensive lineman to play the game. He could be in an opponent's backfield before a quarterback could make a hand-off.

In 1974, Randy White cleaned up the college football awards plate. He was honored with the Outland and Lombardi trophies as the top collegiate lineman, was ACC Player of the Year, was an unanimous first-team All-America choice, named the Delaware (his home state) Athlete of the Year and named the Amateur Athlete of the Year by the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association.

A first round draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys, White was an All-Pro performer throughout his career and shared Super Bowl MVP honors with Dallas teammate Harvey Martin when the Cowboys defeated Denver in Super Bowl XII.

White's No. 94 number has been retired at Maryland. He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame and the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1994.

Bob PELLEGRINI

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1996)

Bob Pellegrini was recruited to Maryland as a quarterback, but made his name as one of college football's best linemen. In his first season, Pellegrini was a 6-2, 215-pound sophomore guard for the 1953 national champion Terrapins. He would play guard again in 1954 in an era when players went both ways, before being switched to center for his senior year to fill a Terrapin void.

As a senior, Pellegrini led Maryland to its second 10-0 regular season and ACC championship in three years as the Terps defeated defending national champion UCLA. He was selected ACC Player of the Year, named consensus All-America and pictured as Herman Hickman's cover boy for Lineman of the Year in 1955.

Pellegrini led the Terps to a 27-4-1 record over his career, with rankings in the Top 10 each season. He was the first pick in the National Football League draft by the Philadelphia Eagles. Pellegrini became one of the building blocks of an Eagle turnaround that took the team to the top of the football world. A losing team when he joined, the Eagles defeated Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers for the World Championship four years later with Bob Pellegrini at linebacker.

Bob Pellegrini was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in December 1996.

Jerry CLAIBORNE

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame (1999)

Former Maryland football coach Jerry Claiborne was selected to join 12 legendary college football players and two other coaches among the 1999 class of inductees into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame.

Claiborne coached 28 seasons overall between stints at Virginia Tech (1961-70), Maryland (1972- 81) and Kentucky (1982-89), and compiled a 179-122-8 record in the process.

At Maryland, Claiborne was named The Sporting News National Coach of the Year in 1974 after winning the Atlantic Coast Conference and finishing the season ranked No. 13 by the Associated Press. He was the District III Coach of the Year in 1973, 1975 and 1976.

In all, Claiborne was the coach of the year in three different conferences --- Southern (1963), ACC (1973, '75, '76) and Southeastern (1983) --- while leading his teams to 11 bowl games. Throughout his coaching career, he was a strong advocate of the right combination of academics and athletics. In his years as head coach, he had four players named Academic All-America and 87 players earn academic all-conference honors. On the field, he coached 13 All-Americans and 53 who earned all-conference status.

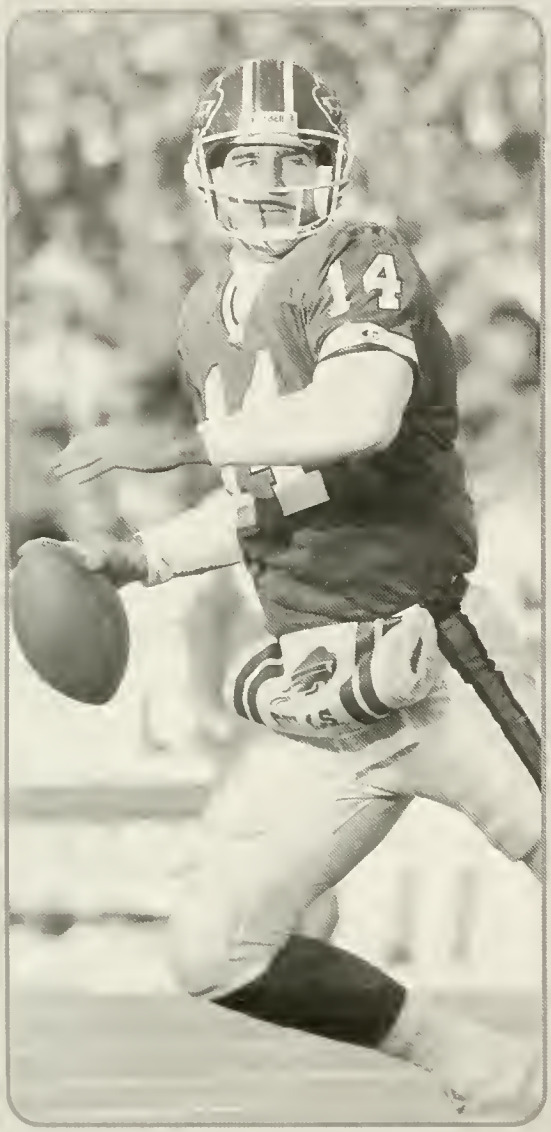
FRANK REICH: THE KING OF COMEBACKS



Reich led the Bills back fram a 35-3 third-quarter deficit.

When it comes to engineering record-setting comeback victories, no one has done it better than Maryland's Frank Reich, who was at the controls for the greatest comebacks in NCAA and NFL history.

Reich's first encounter with greatness occurred as a senior in 1984, when he came off the bench to lead the Terps to what then ranked as the biggest comeback in NCAA history. Down 31-0 at halftime to the defending national champion Miami Hurricanes, head coach Bobby Ross inserted Reich into the lineup in place of Stan Gelbaugh, and Reich proceeded to complete 12 of 16 passes for 260 yards and three touchdowns in propelling the Terps to a 42-40 victory in the Orange Bowl.

Eight years later, on Jan. 3, 1993, Reich met destiny again as he led the Buffalo Bills to the greatest comeback in pro football annals. As in the Miami game in 1984, Reich came off the bench and performed his heroics against a top-notch opponent. This time the foe was the Houston Oilers, who appeared on their way to an easy playoff win by building a 35-3 lead early in the second half.

Reich, however, wasn't deterred. Filling in for the injured Jim Kelly, he demonstrated grace under fire by throwing for a career-high 289 yards and four touchdowns as the Bills went on to win 41-38 in overtime.

Reich led Maryland ta victary after trailing 31-0 at the half.

University Of MARYLAND

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Fourteen years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment."

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

About The University

The Campus

By virtually every measure of quality, the University of Maryland has gained national recognition as one of the fastest rising comprehensive research institutions in the country. The momentum of recent years has poised the university to move it into the top ranks of higher education and take leadership in shaping the research university of the 21st century.

The university has enjoyed a decade of momentum in all of the areas that affect quality, beginning with the quality of our students. For more than 10 years, every freshman class has been the most talented in the university's history, including this year's. Not only are their grade-point averages and SAT scores stellar, about half of them finished in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class.

But Maryland students excel in more ways than just the classroom. They are leaders in the arts and culture, community service, civic engagement and athletics.

What's more, the student body is a model of diversity, with minorities making up more than 32 percent of all students, and at least one graduate and undergraduate student from every state in the nation.

The university has 65 graduate and undergraduate programs ranked in the Top 25 by U.S. News and World Report, up from just one program in 1991.

Sponsored research and outreach has nearly tripled in the same 10-year period, reaching $308.5 million for FY 01. Private giving has increased even more dramatically, from $17 million to $77 million in FY01. Alumni Association membership has been growing at an average rate of 10 percent a year since 1992.

One of the largest research universities in the United States, current enrollment stands at 25,099 undergraduate and 9,061 graduate. There are 94 undergraduate programs, 89 master's programs, 70 doctoral programs, and one first professional degree program. More than 100 centers and institutes are engaged in research and outreach.

Faculty at the University of Maryland, in all fields of knowledge, are engaged at the highest levels of national and international concern. The university's location near the center of federal policy-making and international political and economic activity enables it to play an active role in research and analysis of public policy.

Maryland is one of 30 public universities in the prestigious 63-member Association of American Universities and the only public institution in the Maryland-D.C. area with membership in the nation's most distinguished honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

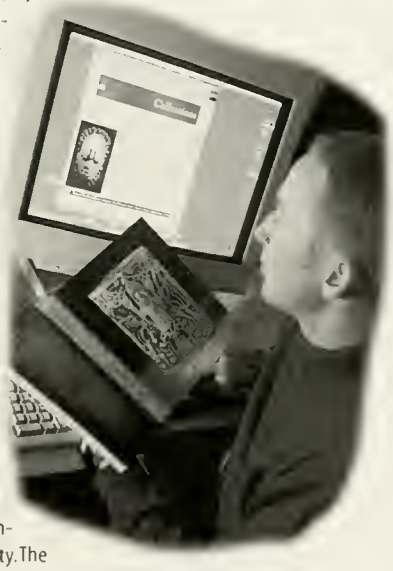
Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, College Park, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.



The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

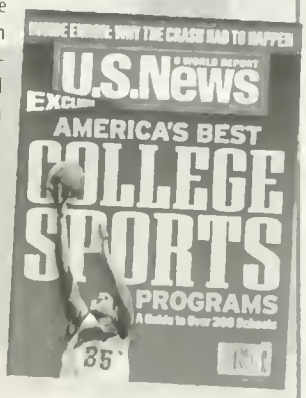
With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

The university last year opened the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center, with its six state-of-the art performance halls, which has quickly become a center of cultural programming in the Washington metropolitan area. The university also boasts four art galleries and a broad range of public art throughout the beautiful campus. Additionally intercollegiate, club and intramural sports provide students of all levels an opportunity to participate as spectators or athletes.

Did You Know?

- In 1991, Maryland had one program listed among Top 25 entrants in the U.S. News & World Report Rankings. Maryland now has 65 programs ranked among the nation's elite.
- A report card published in Technology Review rated the top U.S. universities in their quest for intellectual property, commercial partners and profits. Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland (28th) were the Mid-Atlantic (Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia) schools to make the "campus patenting" top 50 list.
- Block Issues In Higher Education ranked the university 12th in graduating black males with baccalaureate degrees in all disciplines. (Maryland is second among non-historically black schools.) Maryland is 23rd in black male undergraduate enrollment figures among all schools.
- The Wall Street Journal ranked the Robert H. Smith School of Business No. 13 among the world's business schools. Maryland is the top-ranked school in the Mid-Atlantic region (Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia). The Financial Times of London ranked the Robert H. Smith School of Business No. 4 in information technology, No. 6 in faculty research and No. 7 in entrepreneurship.



- In the only undergraduate program rankings released by U.S. News & World Report–business and engineering–both the Robert H. Smith School of Business (No. 21) and A. James Clark School of Engineering (No. 22) were ranked among the top 25. In business, the management information systems specialty was No. 7; entrepreneurship No. 12; general management specialty No. 21; e-commerce No. 8; human resources specialty No. 10. In engineering, the aerospace/aeronautical/astronautical specialty was No. 11.
- An economic impact study conducted by the economists with the Jacob France Center, an applied economics analysis center at the University of Baltimore, concluded that the University of Maryland generates $5.93 of economic activity for every dollar appropriated by the General Assembly, for a total statewide effect of nearly $1.8 billion.
- Maryland appointed William Phillips, a Nobel laureate in physics, to its faculty during the spring. Phillips will establish a world-class atomic, molecular and optical physics group on campus. The Philip Merrill College of Journalism now has five Pulitzer Prize winners on its faculty. A sixth faculty member, Eugene Roberts, directed the Philadelphia Inquirer to multiple Pulitzers as managing editor.

More, Better Students Go To Maryland

The University of Maryland has boasted its best freshman class ever for each of the last 10 years, and the entering freshmen for 2002 are no exception. The academic credentials — high school grades and SAT scores —are again the best ever. And more of those accepted by Maryland are now choosing to enroll here.

This year, half of our freshman finished high school in the top 10 percent of their class. And the average new freshman has taken at least 11 honors or advanced classes in high school. What's more, the student body is a model of diversity, with minorities making up more than 32 percent of all students, and at least one graduate and undergraduate student from every state in the nation.

What is more remarkable this year is how the university's successes in establishing quality programs – academic and athletic – and cementing a major role in the community, have attracted more of the best students than ever.

In its survey of the colleges of choice of top graduates in Maryland high schools last year, the Washington Post found that more than half picked the University of Maryland. No other single school was even close.

PRESIDENT C.D. MOTE JR.

University President (California '51) Fifth Year

When C.D."Dan" Mote Jr. became the 19th president of the University of Maryland on Sept. 1, 1998 he proclaimed it a university "on the move." Four years later, under his guidance, Maryland continues to move – at an ever accelerating rate – on the field, in the classroom, in the community, and in the world.

The University of Maryland is the state of Maryland's most important asset, says Mote: "The future of the state depends on this university."

Fulfilling that responsibility is a big job, but it's a role that Mote is accustomed to, having spent his entire academic career at the University of California at Berkeley, where he earned all his degrees, taught engineering and eventually became vice chancellor for University Relations before coming to Maryland.

One of Mote's first tasks here was to serve on a governor's task force to examine the funding and organization of the University System of Maryland. The task force recommended, and the General Assembly enacted into law, a reaffirmation of the university's flagship status and a commitment to funding at levels comparable to the best public universities in the nation.

As president, Mote is committed to making that asset even greater by creating a culture of excellence and civility across the campus, continuing to emphasize the highest quality education for students, strengthening the university's internal and external connections, and achieving distinction as an institution where discovery takes place every day and everywhere.

The university's progress in each of these areas can be measured by the quality of its programs; the stature of its faculty; the talent of its students; partnerships with business; impact on the state's economy; its ability to apply discoveries to global, national and regional problems; and its world-class, state-of-the-art facilities.

Quality Programs

Over the past decade, Maryland's programs have been improving by leaps and bounds. We currently have 65 graduate and undergraduate programs ranked in the top 25 nationally by U.S. News & World Report, compared with just one program a decade ago.

While the university's academic successes are across the board, it has emerged as a true powerhouse in business, computer science, earth sciences, engineering, education and journalism. The Robert H. Smith School of Business has achieved top 10 rankings from such beacon publications as the Financial Times of London and the Wall Street Journal. Every department in the College of Education has programs ranked in the U.S. News top 25, and the Counseling and Personnel Services Program has long been ranked tops in the nation.

Faculty Stature

With the addition during Mote's third year of a Nobel Laureate in Physics and three more Pulitzer Prize winners (to join three already on the faculty), Maryland continues to attract the best faculty available. More than 30 faculty are members of the national academies in their fields, the highest professional recognition attainable.

Experts on the Maryland faculty are regularly sought by the news media for their views on a wide variety of issues, including politics, international affairs, social trends, economics, the environment, science and technology.

Talented Students

Over the past 10 years, it has become a virtual cliché to announce that each year's new freshman class is the most talented ever. The average GPA of entering students in fall 2002 is expected to exceed 3.90, while the average SAT score is nearly 1300.

Not surprisingly, the number of students enrolling in honors and other special programs has also skyrocketed in recent years. As many as 40 percent of all new freshmen are now enrolled in such programs as Honors, Gemstone, College Park Scholars and other living-learning communities that bring together students with similar academic interests in a residential setting.

Business Partnerships

In order to fulfill its role as the state's most important asset, Mote has emphasized that the university must be engaged with the business and government communities in substantial and meaningful ways. Under his leadership, Maryland has provided its technological expertise to help the state improve its business processes through a Web portal and has consulted with hundreds of Maryland businesses through its Technology Extension Program.

In recent years, the university also helped to attract Fujitsu Laboratories of America to open a research facility in College Park. Fujitsu, the third-largest communications company in the world, shares a building with the Joint Global Change Research Institute, a research partnership between the university and the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory.

Research with Impact

Sponsored research funding has more than doubled at the University of Maryland since 1990, adding significantly to the university's value as both an economic and an intellectual resource. In FY 2001, the university received $250 million in research grants, much of it directed at projects that will directly improve our social, educational and economic well-being.

Recent highlights of research funding include more than $10 million from the National Science Foundation to study a wide range of issues related to information technology, from hardware to sociological impacts of the Internet. NSF also funded two major teaching initiatives in the College of Education totaling more than $20 million and taking the university's expertise directly into Maryland schools to improve math and science instruction. Mote himself chaired an NSF-sponsored task force last year to study the feasibility of voting over the Internet.

World-Class Facilities

During Mote's second year in office, the university began the largest building boom in its history, with more than $100 million in new projects breaking ground that year. New facilities address every aspect of university life, from the arts to recreation to classrooms and laboratories, and, in creative partnership with the private sector, new residential facilities.

Highlights of the construction activity on the campus include the stunning Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center; the Comcast Center, scheduled to open in fall 2002; new classrooms for chemistry, computer science, business and engineering; extensive renovations to the Adele Stamp Student Union; and new parking structures.

Mote also has led the development of a new campus master plan that aims at making the university a leader by example in the adoption of Smart Growth principles, ensuring that the campus retains its renowned beauty and has minimal impact on the surrounding environment.

Athletic Excellence

Mote sees athletics as an integral part of the university experience, not just a showcase to impress visitors and friends. Indeed athletic success more often than not reflects academic success, he notes. For example, all four of the teams that played in last season's NCAA basketball Final Four, including Maryland, are members of the prestigious Association of American Universities, the organization that comprises the leading research and academic universities in North America.

"That's no accident," Mote says. "Institutions that are committed to excellence tend to be excellent in every endeavor. Our successes in basketball, lacrosse and other sports reflects our culture of quality as much as our successes in engineering, business, education and journalism."

DEBORAH A. YOW, ATHLETICS DIRECTOR

Athletics Director Ninth Year

Deborah A. Yow is in the ninth year of her outstanding tenure as director of athletics at the University of Maryland, a year that has seen unprecedented success and achievement in Maryland athletics. Each year has brought about continued improvement and accomplishment in Terrapin athletics. In Yow's eight years at Maryland, the Terrapins have won a remarkable nine NCAA national championships as Maryland athletics has soared to new heights.

The comprehensive success of Terrapin athletics under Debbie Yow's leadership is a clear and compelling testimony of her values of excellence, teamwork and accountability. Likewise, her election to the presidency of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics two years ago is an indication of the respect with which she is regarded among its 6,100 members representing 1,600 colleges in the U.S. and Canada. She was recently singled out by Street and Smith Sports Business Journal as one of the leading administrators in the U.S. and she received the Carl Maddox Sport Management Award presented by the United States Sports Academy for excellence in athletics administration.

Yow, who recently served on the NCAA Management Council and the NCAA Division I Budget Committee, is a strong and steady voice on behalf of intercollegiate athletics in America. Since taking over as AD at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.
- Balanced all eight of the annual department's budgets (the first balanced budgets in the 10 years prior to her arrival). The budget has now reached $40 million annually and the sizable prior operative debts have been eradicated.
- Greatly enhanced the academic support services provided for student-athletes, with an enviable exhausted eligibility graduation rate of approximately 85 percent.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 15 percent of all NCAA Division I institutions.
- Significantly expanded marketing and fund-roising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 240 percent and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 275 percent during her tenure at Maryland.
- Continued to dramatically improve venues and facilities for the department's 25 teams.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strotegy with manogement, marketing ond fund-raising applications.
- Significantly improved customer care in every area.

The most recent achievements of Maryland athletics are exceptional:

- Selected in 2002 by U.S. News & World Report as one of the Top 20 athletic programs in the nation (for overall quality and competitive excellence).
- In football, won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and played in the 2002 Orange Bowl. In men's basketball, won the ACC regular season in 2002, as well as the NCAA national championship. The Terps are among only a few NCAA institutions to have achieved at this distinguished level in these sports in the same year.
- Hired the Associated Press National Coach of the Year, Brenda Oldfield, as the new women's basketboll coach.
- Hired Dave Cottle, the third winningest active men's lacrosse coach in the U.S.
- Field hockey played for the national championship.
- Women's lacrosse has continued its winning ways and has won seven consecutive national championships through 2001.
- Enhancing football facilities significantly with Team House and practice field upgrades.
- Moved into the new $125 million Comcast Center.
- The athletics budget was balanced for the eighth consecutive year.
- In 2001-02 10 Maryland teams competed in NCAA postseason play.
- The productivity, morale, and the competitive and academic achievement of Terrapin athletics are exceptional and continue to gain momentum.

Yow being interviewed by NBC's Jill Sorenson prior to the Orange Bowl.

Debbie Yaw is in her ninth year as Maryland's athletics directar.

Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past eight years, Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied ... our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently ... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools ... to work hard and work smart ... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves."

As a manager and a leader, she clearly models these principles. She is the only known current AD in NCAA Division I who has hired both the National Coach of the Year in football (while at Maryland) and the National Coach of the Year in men's basketball (while at Saint Louis University). Yow is known as "a coach's AD," while also being a highly organized, strategic and proactive leader and administrator. Quite simply, Debbie Yow personifies the relational and management dynamics that are necessary to be an excellent administrator.

A successful former coach at the University of Kentucky and at the University of Florida, she moved into athletics administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as AD at Saint Louis University.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics management and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Reflecting on the status of the Terrapin football program, Maryland's director of athletics points out, "Our football program has been a key element in our emergence as a nationally recognized athletics program. Coach Ralph Friedgen and his staff and team represent our University with integrity and competitive excellence. There is no brighter, caring and harder-working football staff in collegiate athletics. They are the best I have seen in more than 25 years in intercollegiate athletics."

Summing up the entire athletics program, Dr. Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets, our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarship, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our success ... and the basis for our bright future."

Yow being interviewed by the Washington Past's Mark Asher ond Ken Denlinger.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT & CAREER DEVELOPMENT

The University of Maryland is committed to providing the highest quality education to all of its students. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to provide student-athletes excellent opportunities to participate in an intercollegiate athletics program of the highest quality, with the result that their athletics participation becomes an integral and valued component of their total educational experience at the university.

Terrapin student-athletes will find that the same hard work and discipline that has earned them success in athletics competition is also required in the classroom. Balancing the significant time demands and responsibilities required to be a successful student-athlete at the highest collegiate level is no small task. Therefore, as a result of their commitment to representing the university through athletics, Terrapin student-athletes are able to utilize support programs designed to meet their specific needs.

Led by associate athletics director Robert Koonce, the mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit (ASCDU) is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance academic progress, facilitate career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of all UM student-athletes.

The Gossett Academic Support and Career Development Center for Terrapin student-athletes, named for long-time Terp supporters Barry and Mary Gossett, is located in the Comcast Center. It features a study center that includes 25 desktop computers, a tutoring center, a classroom, a CHAMPS/Life Skills resource room and individual offices for six professional academic counselors, a director of enrichment programs, an assistant program coordinator and two graduate assistants. In addition, the center's extended site is located in the Gossett Football Team House, and includes office space for two professional counselors, a program assistant and a 16-station desktop computer center.

Career & Internship Fair

Because career development is an ongoing process, ASCDU provides a variety of programs for student-athletes throughout the year. Professional assistance with resume writing, interviewing skills, graduate school search, and job search is readily available to all student-athletes. During the spring semester ASCDU hosts the Student-Athlete Career & Internship Fair, in which student-athletes can learn about career interests and career planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen areas of interest. Employers at the Career & Internship Fair recognize the marketable qualities student-athletes have gained through athletic participation. Student-athletes learn about opportunities for internships and full-time jobs.

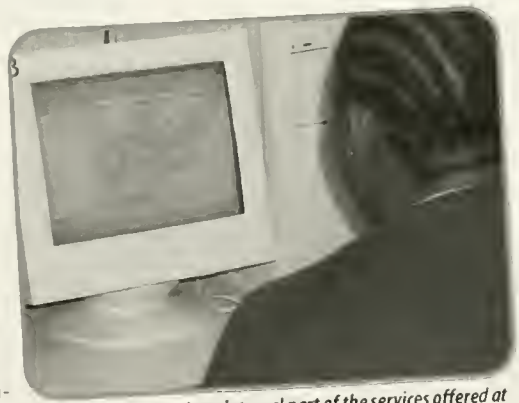
ASCDU hosts an annual career fair at the student union.

Terp Choices

Personal growth is fundamental to all ASCDU programs and services. Terp Choices is a program that provides student-athletes the opportunity to identify their fundamental values, develop communication skills, and enhance decision making skills that will enable them to manage their personal health and well-being. Interactive presentations are given by trained student-educators who intend to illustrate to athletic team participants that an individual's choice may affect an entire team. This campus-wide program is partially funded by grants from the NCAA and ACC.

Student-Athlete Advisory Council

The Student-Athlete Advisory Council (S.A.A.C.) plays an important role in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It consists of two representatives from each varsity sport and meets on a regular basis with representatives from the athletic administration. The S.A.A.C. mission is to enhance the total student-athlete experience by developing leadership skills, promoting student-athlete welfare and fostering a positive student-athlete image on the Maryland campus, local area and nationally.



Career development is an integral part of the services offered at the University of Maryland.

CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs

ASCDU houses the NCAA's (National Collegiate Athletic Association) Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success Program (C.H.A.M.P.S.) and the NCAA Life Skills Program. The ASCDU staff, in collaboration with various other Department of Intercollegiate Athletics' units and campus resources, strives to provide a systematic personal development program designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The focus of the program is on the individual academically, athletically and emotionally, and on the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during college and after graduation. The menu of presentations, workshops and seminars is a comprehensive and balanced system of "life learning" programs promoted for use by each varsity sport team.

Maryland Gameplan

The Maryland Gameplan is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin the job search process. It is distributed to more than 1,000 corporations and businesses across the country. Prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with resume information relative to academic, career and personal achievements. The Maryland Gameplan directory is produced annually in collaboration with the M Club.

Highlights of the CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs:

•Support efforts of every student-athlete toward intellectual development and graduation

- Use athletics as preparation for success in life
- Meet the changing needs of student-athletes
- Promote respect for diversity among student-athletes
- Enhance interpersonal relationships in the lives of student-athletes
- Assist student-athletes in building positive self-esteem
- Enable student-athletes to make meaningful contributions to their communities
- Promote ownership by the student-athletes of their academic, athletic, personal and social responsibilities
- Enhance partnerships between the NCAA, member institutions and their communities for the purpose of education
- Encourage the development of leadership skills

Academic Support For Returning Athletes Program

The Academic Support for Returning Athletes Program was created in 1986 to support the academic efforts of former varsity student-athletes at the University of Maryland, College Park. In 1989, ASRAP was assigned by the President's Office to the Academic Achievements Program and enrolled 40 students that year. As a member of the National Consortium for Academics and Sports (NCAS), the University of Maryland is committed to returning its former athletes for degree completion. A key component of the program is community outreach. Each returning student is provided with a "workship" that allows the cost of tuition and fees to be exchanged for community services with youth.

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

MARYLAND FOOTBALL

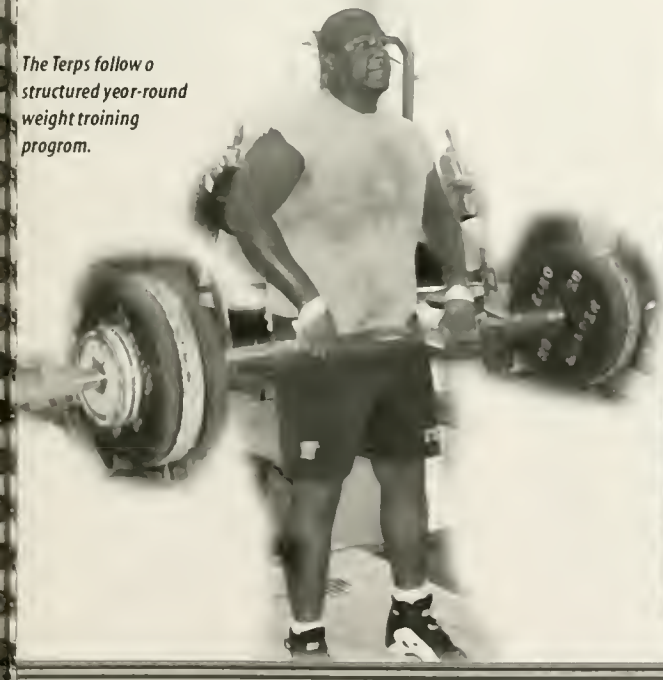
In today's highly competitive world of collegiate football, the off-field preparation of the student-athlete is a critical component to the on-field success of any Division I program. Dwight Galt, Maryland's director of strength and conditioning, believes strongly that a solid off-field training program can dramatically improve levels of performance, as well as significantly reduce the chance of injury. The benefit of performing structured strength and power training throughout the entire year has allowed the Terps to reach new levels in physical development.

At the University of Maryland, the maximal development of athleticism is the primary goal of the strength and conditioning program. To accomplish this requires more than just strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, agility, flexibility, conditioning, plyometrics, and nutrition also play critical roles. The Terps' strength staff places substantial emphasis on all these areas, with special attention to the improvement of speed potential. Galt and his staff employ a wide range of state-of-the-art training methods to assist in enhancing all aspects of speed development.

The Terrapins are fortunate to train in one of the premier weight training facilities in the country. Conveniently located in the Gossett Football Team House, this facility has excellent aesthetic appeal, with two magnificent skylights and large windows overlooking the playing field at Byrd Stadium. The Terps' spacious weight room includes 7,200 square feet of functional floor space, with two elevated offices that are easily accessible to the training floor.

Maryland football players train with some of the best equipment available, including 20,000 pounds of customized York free weights, seven pieces of Keiser progressive air resistance machines, and a full line of Hammer strength equipment. The weight complex also features immense, self-contained power rack stations, Olympic lifting platforms with Eleiko bumper plates, and 10 upper body pressing stations.

A meaningful goal of every Terrapin football player is achievement of the prestigious "Iron Terp" award, which is recognized twice a year to those team members who achieve extremely challenging strength goals, based on body weight. It is a great honor and matter of pride to earn an "Iron Terp" award, and the Terps must "pay the toll" to accomplish this.



The Terps follow a structured year-round weight training program.

Members of the Maryland football team enjoy first-class athletic facilities, including the Terps' well-equipped weight room in the Gossett Football Team House.

TERRAPIN CLUB

Championships Begin With Scholarships

The Terrapin Club is composed of alumni, friends and fans of University of Maryland athletics. Your Terrapin Club contribution provides annual athletic scholarship support to our student-athletes. As a Terrapin Club member, you will enjoy the camaraderie and fellowship unique to this organization. Supporting the Club is a great way to stay connected with the University of Maryland, the state's flagship institution. Most importantly, you will feel the pride and satisfaction in providing a University of Maryland student-athlete with a quality education.

Your donation is vital. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics operates without significant university funding and receives no state appropriations or tax dollars for operational expenses. We are challenged to fund the 271 full scholarships presently offered and, in the future, to fund the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for our 25 sports. We cannot reach this goal without your participation.

Our current project, the Gossett Football Team House Campaign, is an effort to provide funding so that Coach Friedgen and his staff and team will have the tools necessary for Maryland Football to resurge as a national powerhouse. The funds raised through this vital campaign will help to make significant improvements to our football facilities and fields. Over 20,000 square feet will be added to the existing team house through this expansion project, with the addition of: (1) an academic support area for football student athletes that will have fully-wired computer work stations, group study areas and private space for tutoring and counseling; (2) a multi-purpose room with full kitchen that will serve as the team training table for one meal a day, and will provide much needed space for hosting recruits, their families and high school coaches; and (3) a team meeting auditorium that will be fully technologically capable, and will have sufficient space for the team to meet together as a group as they prepare for competitions. As a part of this project, we will also expand the team house entrance and lobby, to include a football Hall of Fame area.

The renovated team house will make a positive and strong impression to prospective players, our team, alumni and visitors, and will ensure that the Terps have the best possible facilities. Without improvement and enhancement of our football facilities, we may not be able to attract the caliber of students who can assist in making Maryland Football exciting, competitive and a source of pride for University of Maryland students, alumni, faculty, staff and fans.

To obtain information on the Gossett Football Team House Campaign, contact the Major Gifts Office at (301) 314-7020, or toll free at (800) 653-7667, or visit our website at www.terrapinclub.com.

MARYLAND EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

Dick Corrigan
Director, Major Gifts

The primary mission of the Maryland Educational Foundation (MEF) is to provide scholarship endowment funds in support of the athletics department's annual athletic scholarship expenses. By supporting talented, deserving student-athletes, donors ensure that our legacy of excellence will continue and grow. For more than 50 years, the MEF has provided financial support for Maryland athletics and is an important part of the department's gift-giving program. The vision of the MEF is to raise enough dollars through private gifts to build an endowment capable of permanently funding many of the university's scholarships now being awarded.

What is an endowment? An endowment is a gift in which the principal is held in perpetuity, with only the income used (in part or whole) for scholarships. The MEF invites you to discuss gifts such as cash, securities, real estate, insurance, personal property, life income, gifts of pooled income funds, charitable remainder trusts, charitable gift annuities, wills and bequests. An endowment gift is truly a significant investment in the future of Maryland athletics. Contact Dick Corrigan or Cooper Jones at 301-314-7020 if you would like more information.

THE M CLUB "Athletes Helping Athletes"

A 79-year Tradition of "Athletes Helping Athletes"

The M Club was founded in 1923 by a group of former University of Maryland athletes led by Dr. H.C. "Curley" Byrd to encourage excellence in athletics. It is one of the oldest and most respected letterwinner clubs in the country with an organization of more than 4,200 former Maryland varsity athletes.

The M Club goals are to help achieve the very best overall academic and athletic program for the 25 varsity teams, to aid the athletes in making positive contributions to the community, to obtain and maintain funds for awards and scholarships and to cultivate social contact and good sportsmanship among the wearers of the "M."

Membership participation, through the payment of annual dues, helps build the scholarship endowment fund and support student-athletes' awards and recognition efforts. Members receive the monthly athletic department publication (TerpTalk) for information about the current teams and news about former teammates.

In addition, active members receive information about, and discounts for, various M Club activities. Many benefits are intangible, though, including the satisfaction of having lettered at a great university and being a part of a unique and exclusive organization.

University of Maryland letterwinners interested in the M Club should call David Diehl at (301) 314-5372 or Dotti Warren at (301) 314-7020, or visit our website at www.themclub.org. Remember the M Club, "Athletes Helping Athletes."

TERPS ON RADIO

All of Maryland's games will be broadcast live on the Terrapin Sports Network, which boasts one of the strongest coverage areas in collegiate sports. Terrapin Sports Marketing, a division of Viacom Sports Marketing, manages the Terrapin Sports Network in College Park. In its first year as the multimedia marketing rights partner for University of Maryland athletics, Terrapin Sports Marketing is building a stronger network that will provide coverage in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey and Washington, D.C.

Maryland's broadcasts will be accessible on the Internet via the Terps' official athletics website, www.umterps.com.

JOHNNY HOLLIDAY

Play-By-Play
24th Season

Johnny Holliday, now in his 24th year as "Voice of the Terps," is considered one of the finest play-by-play announcers in the country. In addition to calling the action for the Maryland football and basketball teams, Holliday hosts the Ralph Friedgen and Gary Williams television shows. As the Terps' director of broadcasting, he also handles a myriad of speaking duties within the athletics department, ranging from banquets to golf outings.

His long list of credits includes ABC's coverage of the 2000 and 1996 Summer Olympics and the Winter and Summer Olympics in 1984, 1988 and 1994. In addition, he has covered championship boxing, the Masters, and the Liberty and Aloha bowls.

Holliday's announcing career allows him to lay claim as Washington's most versatile broadcaster, and among the best nationally. Whether it be in radio, where he was named America's No. 1 disc jockey during his rock 'n roll deejay days, to his public address duties with the Cleveland Browns, Oakland Raiders, and Golden State Warriors, to his work in Washington television for the Senators and Bullets, Holliday makes a complicated business look easy.

He brings that ease to the Maryland coaches' television shows on Comcast SportsNet, the region's premier sports channel. Holliday is among the pioneer broadcasters for the sport of women's basketball, earning a Distinguished Service Award from ACC women's basketball officials for his work on that league's women's basketball telecasts. Additionally, Holliday was named one of the top 16 radio announcers for college basketball by ESPN's Dick Vitale.

A native of Miami, Fla., Holliday began his broadcasting career in Perry, Ga., and through the years has worked in four of the nation's prime radio markets: Cleveland, New York, San Francisco and Washington. At one time, he was recognized as America's No. 1 disc jockey.

In addition to his broadcasting accomplishments, he also has been extremely successful raising money for charity. Washingtonion magazine honored him as a Washingtonian of the Year for his many civic activities. His basketball and softball teams, the Radio Wonders, have raised more than $1 million for charity. He is involved in Special Olympics, Catholic Charities, Operation Smile, and the Boy Scouts of America. He has served as television host for the Easter Seals, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes and Leukemia telethons.

In 1998, he was honored by the Greater Washington, D.C. Chapter of Operation Smile with its 1998 Smile Award for his outstanding service to the community. In 1995, he was the recipient of the University of Maryland M Club Distinguished Citizen Award. He earned the Touchdown Club Award for outstanding achievement in sports broadcasting in 1991, and was the recipient of the Maryland basketball service award in 1999. He is an honorary member of the university's chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa and the university's Alumni Association.

Holliday and his wife, Mary Claire, are the proud parents of three daughters: Kellie, a physician who resides in Bel Air, Md., with her husband Steve, who also is a physician; Tracie, a neo-natal nurse at Shady Grove Hospital who resides in Potomac, Md., with her husband Chris, an attorney; and Moira, who recently graduated from St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia and works for Discovery.

JONATHAN CLAIBORNE

Color Analyst
Third Season

Former Terrapin standout Jonathan Claiborne is in his third season as the color analyst on Maryland's radio broadcast team. Claiborne, who lettered from 1975-77 as a safety, is the son of former Terp head coach Jerry Claiborne, who was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1999 after a 28-year career as head coach at Virginia Tech, Maryland and Kentucky.

Originally a walk-on at Maryland in the mid-'70s, Jonathan Claiborne eventually worked his way into a first-string safety position and earned a scholarship. He was a two-year starter and played on three bowl teams. The Terps were 28-7-1 during his varsity playing career.

Claiborne, who is now a practicing attorney in the Baltimore area for the firm Whiteford, Taylor and Preston, excelled on and off the field while playing with the Terrapins. He was a two-time All-ACC Academic selection and a 1977 CoSIDA Academic All-American. He also was the recipient of a NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship in addition to earning a fellowship from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. Claiborne earned a double degree at Maryland (history and accounting) and posted a cumulative GPA of 3.57. He was a two-time winner of the George C. Cook Award (given to the Terp varsity football player with the highest grade point average) and also won the Talbot T. Speer Award for leadership, scholarship and athletic ability.

Claiborne previously spent four years as a color analyst on Towson Tiger football radio broadcasts.

TIM STRACHAN

Sideline Reporter
Seventh Season

Former DeMatha High standout Tim Strachan is in his seventh season as the sideline reporter on Maryland's football broadcasts. Strachan, a 1999 graduate of the University of Maryland with a degree in communications, was a student assistant coach with the Terps from 1996-99. He is in his second year as a law student at Georgetown.

Strachan, who was paralyzed in a swimming accident before his senior year of high school, launched T13 Charities — A Foundation for Spinal Cord Injuries as a way to benefit others with spinal cord injuries. He is a motivational speaker and also is a freelance reporter for the Ralph Friedgen and Gary Williams coaches' television shows. He was named the 1999 Washingtonian of the Year by Washingtonion magazine.

BYRD STADIUM

Byrd Stadium, which celebrated its 50 birthday during the 2000 season, has been home to national championship football and men's and women's lacrosse teams, and to more than 50 ACC track and field champions. It hosted the Queen of England at a football game, and was the stage where the greatest high hurdler in history, Renaldo Nehemiah, performed his amazing feats. It also has been a regular site for the NCAA men's lacrosse Final Four, where several attendance records have been shattered.

Byrd Stadium — it's the first-class home of the Maryland Terrapins.

Situated at the foot of the campus' North Hill, the stadium is named for Dr. H.C. Byrd, a multi-sport athlete as an undergraduate who later became head football coach and eventually served as university president. His vision gave University of Maryland preeminence among Eastern campus sports facilities for decades and the impetus for the Terrapins to win more ACC championships than any league school.

Since opening on Sept. 30, 1950, when Maryland defeated Navy 35-21 in the dedication game before a school-record crowd of 43,386 fans, Byrd has undergone a number of major facelifts, three of which occurred in the 1990s and have resulted in its present form. The first came shortly after the 1990 home season, when the Tyser Tower press box — a fantastic five-tier, 90-foot high, 160-foot long structure — was built on the stadium's south rim. Tyser Tower accommodates 300 exterior luxury seats, a hospitality suite with theater-style seating, a spacious working press area, television and radio booths, and a photo deck.

In 1991, construction was completed on a beautiful new football complex — since named the Gossett Football Team House — just beyond the east end zone. This $7 million building houses football coaching offices and meeting areas, academic computer lab, locker rooms, weight facility, and a medical support area. A bronze Terrapin sits in front of the team house, its installation coming in 1992 as part of the celebration of the 100th year of football at the university. Following the 1994 campaign, Byrd's seating capacity increased by more than 12,000 to its current level of 48,055 when a massive upper deck was added on the stadium's north side. The cost for the latest renovation exceeded $45 million.

The refurbishing of Byrd included new restrooms, bleachers and the stadium's first formal entranceway off of Field House Drive. The Gossett Football Team House, Tyser Tower, concession stands, restrooms and stadium portals, designed by H.O.K. Architects of Kansas City, are enclosed in sand-molded brick that matches the Williamsburg-style brick used on most of Maryland's 335 buildings. The brick gives the contemporary architecture a timeless veneer and unity with the university's traditional Georgian look.

Byrd Highlights

1950 Byrd Stadium is constructed at a cost of $1 million. The original capacity was 34,680, but could be boosted to more than 50,000 with temporary bleachers around the rim of the stadium.

1953 Byrd is home to the national champion Terrapin football team.

1955 In a game billed as the "Best of the East" vs. the "Best of the West," Maryland defeated No. 1-ranked UCLA 7-0. Historians called that game one of the greatest of the decade.

1957 Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Phillip visited while former Terp head coach Jim Tatum returned to the scene of his greatest coaching triumphs. The Terps went on to upset North Carolina in what then head coach Tommy Mont later called his finest moment as coach.

1974 The legendary Bear Bryant returned to College Park with his third-ranked Alabama Crimson Tide on Sept. 14. Temporary bleachers were installed for only the second time in stadium history to accommodate 54,412 fans, then the largest crowd ever at Byrd. Later in the season, on Oct. 11, the-then second-largest crowd (49,647) in Byrd history watched the 15th-ranked Terps defeat 17th-ranked NC State 20-10.

1975 The Byrd Stadium attendance record of 58,973 was set when 14th-ranked Maryland hosted ninth-ranked Penn State.

1983 Byrd Stadium played host to its second-largest crowd, 54,715, as the 17th-ranked Terps met No. 20 West Virginia.

1985 The Terps, ranked No. 1 in the preseason by Sport magazine, set the all-time school home attendance record, averaging 49,385 for five home games.

1990 Construction began following the last home football game of the season on what was the first major athletic construction on campus in 35 years. The Byrd Stadium refurbishment was the first of its kind to be done without the supervision of Curley Byrd.

1994 Following the end of the football season, renovations continued with the addition of an upper deck.

1995 Seating capacity is 48,055 — an increase of 12,000 — following the completion of the upper deck on the stadium's north side. As needed, bleachers can increase the seating capacity to 62,000.
